S.S.F. MINORITY PROBLEMS

They're Not Irreconcilable

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

There are no real irreconcilable problems between Spanish surname minorities and the South San Francisco Unified School District. But rectifying the problems will take time.

This was the gist of the meeting Thursday night in which the administration replied to six pertinent questions raised by Attny. Ricardo A. Callejo, representing the Spanish Speaking Surnamed Political Association, Inc.

Callejo said he was definitely impressed with the sincerity of the administration and "some of the progress." However, he added that "sincerity, unfortunately, was not enough.

The San Francisco-based attorney said that he would prepare a written "creative and constructive" response to the administration's report. The purpose being that the two factions can then get together and work on the problem areas.

Superintendent Paul Neilsen introduced the director of secondary education, Frank McNutt, who gave the administration's presentation to the school district's advisory Intergroup Relations Commission.

Nielsen, however, also stressed the fact he was seeking "equal time" in making the presentation, saying the administration spent 2½ hours hearing them so they felt obliged to answer them fully.

"We're not here as defendants, said Neilsen. "We are here to inform. There are some opinions, but we have tried to stick to facts."

The superintendent added that he was "grieved" by the fact that in the questions put forth by Callejo the word "failure" was mentioned in almost every instance. Neilsen also felt the complaints were a "shotgun" approach.

At one point, when McNutt had proceeded for approximately 20 minutes, chairman Rev. Gilbert H. Vieira asked if it were not possible to be more brief. Callejo also said, "My statements were brief and to the point. It would be a courtesy for you to be as succinct as possible."

Neilsen's reaction was that the administration had spent many hours preparing the report. "No one should tell us how to submit our report," he said. "If it's not liked the way it's submitted, we'll withdraw it." He pointed out also that if the report were not given in full there would be no "give and take."

The report actually lasted just under two hours. It was heard by a packed house, of all races and creeds.

McNutt went into quite some detail in answering each question, then gave what he called "salient points."

In reply to the first question of an asserted failure to assess the language needs and provide a bilingual program, the list of salient points was longer than other answers.

These included the fact that the district was taking steps to (Please See Page 2, Column 6)

'Fireman's Fireman'

Plaque Honors First Full Time D.C. Chief

By FRANK LaPIERRE
Post-Time Writer

The late J. Elmer Kennedy was considered a firemens' fireman by his associates and friends.

He devoted some 37 years to the Daly City Fire Department and even a heart ailment could not keep the city's first fulltime fire chief from answering an alarm—night or day.

Chief Kennedy died at his home as a result of a heart attack in 1965 at the age of 60.

During those six decades he contributed much to furthering the growth of Daly City and especially in assisting the fire department reach maturity.

In honor of his efforts and "for his outstanding devotion and service to the citizens of Daly City and to the Daly City Fire Department . . ." a plaque was purchased and installed by the Volunteer Fire Department and Veteran Firemens' Association recently.

Some 200 friends, relatives, fellow firemen and city officials attended unveiling of the bronze monument installed on a concrete pillar adjacent to a long row of photographs of other city leaders.

Vice-mayor Frank Pacelli acted as master of ceremonies for the event at the Civic Center with dedicatory remarks offered by Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett and Frank Tardelli, captain in the Volunteer Fire Department.

Friendship between Kennedy and former councilman Arthur J. Bodien (1924-33) was such that Bodien left a sick bed to attend.

Response to the plaque, which outlined Kennedy's climb from a volunteer hoseman in 1928 to the city's first paid chief in 1951, came from his brother James H. Kennedy.

Kennedy was instrumental in getting the law passed making so-called "sixth class cities" come under the civil service act. Daly City was the first such city to pass an ordinance of this nature in the state.

A lot of people who did not attend the ceremonies at city hall remember Kennedy also.

They think of him as "Santa" because for many years he was one of the moving forces behind Operation Santa Claus, the annual drive to bring a small measure of happiness into the homes of the city's poor.

Kennedy started the campaign along with Chamber of Commerce manager Peter J. Markovich some 19 years ago.

Being a fireman for Kennedy was a natural.

He was assistant superintendent of the Water Department before being a paid fireman and knew the water system "inside and out."

If you ask some of the "oldtimers" at the fire station they'll tell you all about Kennedy in one short sentence:

"He was a helluva fireman."

New Trend?

Teachers' Group Obtains Offices

Daly City offices have been rented by the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association (JCTA) amid speculation it may start a new trend in educational circles.

JCTA president Joan Hemphill said the move was necessitated because of the ever increasing activities among committees of the elementary teachers' organization.

She explained that the group's records, office machines and other related paraphernalia is scattered from home to home among the organization's various officers.

"Now that we have our own offices, we can keep our records together, and in general be better organized and more effective," said Mrs. Hemphill.

The address of the recently rented office is 151 Eighty-seventh Street, Suite 11. Future plans, of course, will include installation of a telephone, and possibly a part-time secretary.

Rent for the office is paid from JCTA membership dues.

In addition to the regular paperwork-type activities, the group (Please See Page 2, Column 6)

Absences At Noise Meet Conspicuous

San Mateo County Supervisors, along with San Francisco City and County officials were conspicious by their absence at Monday night's meeting in South San Francisco on jet noise.

They were not obligated to attend the session. However, South San Francisco officials took the total abstention, without representation, as somewhat of an affront. Their contention being that these officials should be more interested in this jet noise problem, which South San Francisco considers highly critical.

South San Francisco had sent special invitation letters to both San Mateo and San Francisco city and county officials, plus airport people and state and federal legislators.

When South San Francisco councilman Frank Marmini, acting as master of ceremonies, asked that the San Mateo supervisors stand and be recognized, there wasn't a stir. The same request for San Francisco supervisors, or San Francisco representation, resulted in one response.

F. V. Philpot said he was representing San Francisco International Airport manager George Hanson.

There was some other scattered token representation. Presidence was noted of Assemblyman Leo Ryan's representative. Present, in person, was one of Ryan's opponents — Frank Spaderella. Also in attendance were field representatives of Congressman Paul N. (Pete) (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

Major D.C. Role In BART Track Laying Disclosed

Daly City is expected to play a major role in construction of the Bay Area Rapid Transit system as the hub for special track-laying crews, the Post learned last Wednesday.

Within the next few weeks one-quarter-mile (1,500 feet) length steel rails will began arriving by freight train along the Southern Pacific tracks adjacent to the Knowles Avenue BARTD site.

Until Daly City officials agreed on construction of the station, the entire matter was up in the air.

Last month Daly City and BARTD came to terms on station design and construction and have further agreed to allow the transit district to cross Knowles Avenue with the specially designed rails.

At present, BARTD may choose to cross the busy street with a grade level SP track extension, or a temporary overpass might be built between the end of the SP tracks to the start on the BARTD tracks.

Dravo Company, low bidder on the 14-mile Oakland to Daly City section, will began moving men and special equipment into the area soon, according to a BARTD spokesman.

Each of the lengths is loaded on 35 flatcars and transported to the "head of track" and transferred to the BARTD tracks. The rapid transit system has a wider gauge than regular rail systems and must be installed with entirely different equipment.

There are no weld joints in BARTD tracks.

Instead, they are "fused" together in order to eliminate the usual "clickety-clack" connected with the operation of other fixed rail systems in the country.

The noise experienced on these other tracks results from the space between rail lengths purposely left to compensate for contraction and expansion during temperature changes.

In BARTD rail installation these temperature changes are taken into consideration at the time the track is manufactured, a BARTD spokesman explained.

Fortunately, there are no temperature extremes in the Bay Area, making the rail crews' work that much easier, he pointed out.

The rails cannot bend or buckle under the temperature variations they will be expected to perform under here because these variations have already been "built into" the rail itself.

Meanwhile, construction of the station will not be hampered by the rail crews, BARTD officials feel.

Pacifica Controversy

LAFCO Hearing Today On Water District Merger Bid

Pacifica's proposal to take over the North Coast County Water District is scheduled for public hearing at 2 p.m. today before the Local Agency Formation Commission in Redwood City.

Consolidation, either through merger or by making the district a subsidiary of the city, was proposed by Pacifica officials in December, 1968, and opposed by district directors in a detailed answer last April.

The district, originally formed by consolidating a number of small water agencies, covers 11 square miles and numbers 11,827 registered voters.

"While district-city relations have been good," the city said in its proposal, "it is apparent that a greater level of efficiency can be had in the fields of planning and operations with a consolidation of forces. Politically and economically the city should be an operation that provides the most complete package of municipal services it is possible to devise.

"There is no valid reason to have a separate public jurisdiction to serve water in the city of Pacifica, and, therefore, there should be none.

"The existence of a separate water district can no longer be justified. Political considerations have now become outdated and probably no longer exist. If they do, they are so unimportant that they can no longer be a valid excuse for a separate water agency.

"The main reason the city and district should be consolidated is that they serve the same people and an added local agency can be nothing but an unnecessary duplication. There would be no economic benefit to consolidation at this time, but there would be no debit either. Consolidation will bring more effective planning for the future."

In its report opposing consolidation, the district asserted, among other things, that it is delivering an adequate supply of water efficiently, is financially stable, has a well-trained and well-equipped staff, has kept water rates at a fair and competitive level and managed to reduce tax rates drastically for the past decade and has assured an adequate water supply until at least 1980.

"There are no demonstrable economics in providing water service that will be realized from consolidation.

"Consolidation will neither improve the quality of water service in Pacifica nor reduce the cost of providing the service. Consolidation can give rise to political considerations and will undoubtedly result in increased charges for water service.

B. Sherman Coffman, the commission's executive officer, said the basic issue to be resolved is a policy question: "Will the best long-range interest of the community be served by the elimination of a single purpose special district?"

"If the question is resolved in (Please See Page 2, Column 2)

Elementary Dispute

Jeff Arbitration Next?

Independent arbitration may be the answer to the salary negotiation dispute between the administration and teachers of Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City.

Superintendent Frank Greenwood recommended this course of action following a presentation of Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association president Joan Hemphill and Denis O'Leary, representing the JCTA negotiating council.

Greenwood's recommendation will be taken under submission by the teacher organization.

The conflict goes back to negotiations held during the spring of 1969. Basically both groups agreed to a four per cent pay increase, and that teachers would get 75 per cent of monies above $150,000 received by the district.

Here is where the dispute arises. Teachers say they were to receive 75 per cent of all monis. The administration claims the agreement was 75 per cent of any money received in state aid only.

Said Mrs. Hemphill Tuesday night, "Communication to the board through their representative, the superintendent, is extremely difficult. Agreements signed by the superintendent have been altered, indicating that the ideology of negotiating in good faith is only a phrase used — not a practice of good faith negotiations.

"Even with this a reality we have not called impasse, but have continued to attempt to reach a settlement. Teachers feel that the agreement was made, the money is available, and that the superintendent should attempt to communicate this to the board.

O'Leary spoke only a few minutes, repeating much of what Mrs. Hemphill stated, after which the board went into an (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

An Education Philosophy Unit Named

The Jefferson Council of P-TA's Monday approved a new community committee, charged with review of Jefferson Elementary School District educational philosophy and objectives.

Trustees of the district had urged formation of the committee, to be representative of wide segments of the community.

Mrs. Jean Markovich, president of the Council, disclosed this committee which includes students:

Robert Sturdevant, Mrs. Arlene Pleich, Dr.Tom Kilpatrick, Jim Lemke, Mrs. Gladys Ross, Mrs. Julia Monares, Mrs. Stan Feldman, Dr. John Connolly, Dr. Vinton Stratton, Mrs. John Biagotti, Mrs. John Kachur;

Miss Rosie Guillen, Mrs. Bobbie Toner, Miss Sylvia Howard, Marion Goodwin, Gordon Cartwright, Mrs. Donna Jones, Mrs. Guido deGhetaldi, Jr., Hartley Appleton, Mrs. Rosemary Daly, Robert Hunter, Mrs. Virginia Duggan, Don Monson, Jerry Galindo;

Spadarella Steps Down As County HRC Chairman

Frank Toto Spadarella, Daly City restaurateur who has announced for the Republican nomination in the Twenty-seventh Assembly District, stepped down Thursday as chairman of the County Human Relations Commission.

He intends to remain on the commission, however.

Spadarella said he was resigning the post because of his candidacy for Leo J. Ryan's Assembly seat and so that there could be no suspicion that he was using the postion of chairman for his personal political advantage.

Stuart Leeb, who had been first vice chairman, took over the chairmanship from Spadarella and Harry Bremond of East Palo Alto, who had been second vice chairman, was elevated to Leeb's former position.

Two commissioners, David J. Friedenberg of South San Francisco and William Enomoto of Atherton, were nominated for second vice chairman.

Spadarella told his fellow commissioners that he felt "indebted" for the privilege of serving as chairman for the past year and a half.

"I personally feel that we have made some progress," he said, "but I know much more needs to be done. I felt I must step down as chairman, but I would like to remain as a member because we have just begun to scratch the surface."

Galindo Receives A Life Term For Coast Slaying

Clarence Galindo, 19-year-old murderer of a retired Pacifica sea captain, was sentenced to life imprisonment Tuesday by Superior Judge Robert F. Kane in Redwood City.

Galindo pleaded guilty earlier this month to first degree murder in the slaying of Christian Pedersen, 92, last June 20 after escaping from the San Francisco County Jail facility west of San Bruno.

The defendant's companion, Carlos Lopez, 25, who escaped with Galindo, was convicted of second degree murder by a Superior Court jury last month and already has been sentenced to state prison.

In his pre-sentence report, Probation Officer Keith A. Jones notes that Galindo told him that he has a severe drug problem and probably is addicted to heroin.

The defendant related, Jones said, that he first got on drugs at the age of five when he started stealing and consuming his father's heart medication.

He moved to San Francisco from Visalia, Galindo told the probation officer, because of the ready availability of drugs in the Haight-Ashbury district.

Galindo beat Pedersen to death with a pair of shears after he and Lopez broke into the retired captain's home at 165 Winon Avenue. Pedersen's wife was severely beaten and still remains in a convalescent hospital.

executive session on the request of Greenwood.

Some 15 minutes later they returned and Greenwood read from a prepared statement.

"The board feels that action taken by the board of trustees relative to its action at the June 3, 1969 meeting constituted agreement and mutual understanding, and that such action was taken in good faith as demonstrated by steps already taken such as the four per cent increase and additional fringe benefits.

"Therefore," continued Greenwood, "The board proposes that the matter be submitted to the American Arbitration Association for determination of the intent and validity of the agreement and board action."

Greenwood added that the party whose interpretation is not accepted (by the independent arbitration) will bear all costs of the arbitration.

Concerning the reference to "signed" agreements, Greenwood explained after the board meeting that they were what he called "notes" as a routine part of negotiation.

"Duirng negotiations we set up an agenda" to determine what is to be discussed," said Greenwood. "These show the areas of agreement and those of disagreement.

"The negotiating counicl has to go back to the JCTA membership for approval of what is discussed, just as I must go back to the board for their approval before I can make any firm commitments.

"At the March 5 meeting, I signed these pieces of paper I call notes. They prefer to call them documents or agreements. However, at the meeting of March 22, I read the exact proposal; the one that states we'd give the four per cent raise plus 75 per cent of all additional state support money. Then on March 26, I sent them a letter once again making the same proposal. I heard nothing from them."

An 8½ by 11 sheet of paper held by the teacher group, identified on the top as "meeting X, Negotiation Council Board Room, April (which is crossed out) (then) May 5, 1969, signed by Greenwood, shows "Board's counter (subject to approval by Board and Teachers.)"

It has the four per cent, plus 75 per cent of all additional income above $150,000. However, it also has what Greenwood points out; that it is subject to approval by both the board and the teachers.

'Maintenance Manager Is Needed'

By WILL E. THOMAS
Post City Editor

The Jefferson Union High School District, with its six schools and many buildings, needs one person to head a district-wide maintenance and repair division, trustees were told last week.

Assistant superintendent for business and finance, Glenn South, urged budgeting of funds and ultimate creation of a post to coordinate repair and maintenance over all school facilities in the district.

The availability of funds appeared to go hand-in-hand, needwise, South and trustees seemed to agree, with acquiring someone to head the program.

South said he could make use of any sum of money for such things as repairing seats in Westmoor's little theatre, replacing floor tiles in several plants, re-paving of some schools' roads.

But, a priority would have to be established.

District superintendent Ed Morgan pointed out that there are a million dollars worth of buildings in the district and that money must be set aside to take care of such items as rusting and erosion or "this district is in for some serious troubles."

The district has spent "virtually nothing" on maintenance, he explained.

"We could budget a million dollars, but still would need a coordinated program to get the best mileage out of maintenance," board president Al Teglia asserted.

"We're of the size now," South said, "that we need one man to handle just repair and maintenance."

the affirmative," he said, "a move will have been made to further simplify local government and further place the management of the basic required urban services under a single policy-making board and a single administration.

"If the question is answered in the negative, the local community leaders will still be faced with reconciling the problem of simplifying local government and the method for providing the basic services which are required by an urban community."

Jet Noise Meet

McCloskey and State Senator Richard Dolwig.

South San Francisco officials were not without moral support at least. Present in the audience of some 200 persons, including residents of Portola Valley, Foster City and Woodside, was Sam Halstead, mayor of Portola Valley.

Halstead, who incidentally also is a candidate for State Senator Dolwig's seat, told the crowd that "We in the South County are just as concerned as you are up here. You are not alone. We, too, feel this noise harassment has to cease."

Ironically, there appeared to be no official representation from San Bruno, the airport city. One San Bruno resident, however, was conspicuous by his presence.

John G. Girdish, 770 East San Bruno Avenue, stood at the doorway and handed out mimeographed copies of newspaper stories on how noise is having a detrimental affect on man.

Girdish, a carpenter, obviously held no love for airplane noise, claiming that because of it he "lost 25 per ctnt of my hearing, 25 per cent of my lite." He also stated, unequivically, that San Bruno's councilmen "uphold and cater to the airlines." The remarks were the tenor of the evening.

There was of course no official action required nor taken. But emphasis was put on the fact that later this week concerned people throughout the nation will be meeting in Phoenix for the purpose of selecting officers and establishing by-laws for a national anti-jet noise organization. It is called NOISE, National Organization to Insure Sound-Controlled Environment.

Speaking on this organization Monday night was Richard Taylor, public information officer for the city of Inglewood, Calif. Inglewood is saturated by flight paths of Los Angtles International Airport.

In addition to Inglewood representation at Phoenix, there will be representatives of those cities in the flight paths of O'Hare Field in Chicago, Denver International Airport and New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport.

"Pollution is the hottest political issue in this country," said Taylor. "And air pollution is moving up from the tail end, next to smog, the star of pollution."

Taylor indicated that NOISE has in mind as part of its fight against air nose pollution, the establishment of a lobbying office in Washington, D.C.

He made no bones about the fact that the purpose of the office was to keep abreast of any and all activities pertaining to jet noise. And that NOISE is not overlooking the political ramifications. "Our lobbyist will go to mayors who will apply their political pressures. And don't think they (legislators) don't listen to mayors. We have to balance up the political power," said Taylor.

As far as South San Francisco is concerned, they will not have representation at Phoenix, but definitely will be there in spirit. And more than likely will become a member of NOISE.

Undoubtedly, the next move on the part of the city will be to attempt to establish some type of prohibitive ordinance. Inglewood recently enacted one which South San Francisco possibly will model.

Inglewood, incidentally has set up what they call a "ten point program" to "better adjust to jet planes."

Included are (1) building code revisions and soundproofing (2) planning and development studies (3) the comprehensive ordinance (4), legal actions (5) runway extensions (6) approach pattern revision (7) quieter engines (8) glide slope increase (9) FAA, CAB and state PUC intervenor, and (10) support of national noise abatement efforts.

Whether South San Francisco picks up on all these areas is yet to be seen.

Problems Of Minority 'Not Irreconcilable'

improve the student's self image; that English was being taught as a second language; that summer school was held in which there was intensive study of English; that the district has special speech therapists; there are in-service workshops; and many, many more.

Callejo's second question about relying on English language tests, resulting in the tracking of students to low level courses had these salient point answers.

No one test is relied on; there are regular reviews required by state law; each teacher evaluates his students; enrollment shows no disproportionate numbers of minorities in this position; for part of one test Spanish instructin was used.

The third question had to do with alleged failure to recruit staff members who have a sensitivity toward the problems of minority people. McNutt answered that most applicants seek the district, rather than vice versa. He said the district does not go out of state to recruit. However, recently the district agreed to become part of a group effort through the county to rercuit in the Southwest.

"When interviewed," said McNutt, "the personnel department and principal are alert to the dirtict's minority background needs." Counselors with a working knowledge of Spanish also are assigned.

Numbers were used to answer the fourth question of failure to recognize the contributions of minority groups in American history.

McNutt listed grade-by-grade the courses being taught which emphasized the contributions of the Spanish, Mexicans, American Indians, problems of slavery and numerous other ethnic studies.

Question five, having to do with more bilingual bulletins and literature, was answered by simply stating there were in fact numerous such bulletins and pieces of literature available.

For the answer to question six, failure to provide bilingual personnel in the district, McNutt again used numbers. He gave figures for four schools, showing the number of instructors with no working knowledge of Spanish; those with high school Spanish; those with college Spanish; and those who could otherwise communicate in Spanish.

A NEW TREND?

will hold various committee, officer, negotiating council, professional relations, teacher evaluation, human relations, health and welfare and ad infinitum meetings in the office.

"It belongs to all JCTA members," said Mrs. Hemphill, "so it's certain the office will be well used."

She added that another use probably would be that of the public relations committee to print up the organization's newsletter, recently barred from publishing on district equipment.

"Of course it will take time and efforts to organize the office routine and its time uses properly," said Mrs. Hemphill, agreeing, however, that this couldn't be worse than the present operation.

"When records are distributed all around as ours were, it seemed that everyone was spinning their wheels," she said. "Although everything every group worked on was individually important, it seemed that there was no real priority set up to really hit a project and get it over with. Now we have a place to do this."

PACIFICA'S Saturday Moratorium Fair included rock music after Jefferson Union High School District Superintendent Edward Morgan relented from an earlier decree that would have banned music at the peace gathering at Oceana High School. Observers noted the scene to be peaceful and serene, as citizens sat in circles and discussed their causes, or just listened to the music, while numerous children painted. Tables were set up and signs urged, "End The War Now", "Ban DDT", "Stop Air Pollution", "Outlaw Guns And Hunting", "Stop The Draft" and "Protect Our Ecology". Petitions were abundant, and visitors to the "fair" numbered over 200, including several from out of town.

Barberian Is Confirmed

Karney Barberian, San Bruno's vice mayor, has been confirmed as North County cities' representative to a control board designed to administer the joint power agreement for the extension of BARTD to San Francisco International Airport.

Barberian, who was initially suggested for the seat on the higher 4-man board by the San Mateo Council of Mayors, also received the approval of the North County Council of Cities.

Mother Is Burned In South SF Fire

A South San Francisco mother of four children suffered first and second degree burns of her hands and face Sunday trying to put our a fire that had started in the living room.

Fire department spokesmen in South San Francisco said Mrs. Donald Ruddleson also suffered a cut leg climbing out a living room window, and her husband led the youngsters from the partment at 146 Gardner Avenue.

Mrs. Ruddleson was taken to the community's Kaiser Hospital.

Firemen said the fire started when clothes on a drying rack positioned near the wall furnace became overheated.

The Ruddlesons noted the flames shortly before 10:45 p.m., that caused an estimated $1,000 damage to walls, ceiling, floor and some contents, firemen said. There was heavy smoke throughout the large apartment.

Jefferson Recruiting Policy Is Questioned By Trustees

Questions regarding the necessity of Jefferson Elementary School District out-of-state teacher recruitment has led to a full report on the Daly City school district's recruitment policy.

Superintendent Frank Greenwood and Director of Personnel Don Pagani told trustees last Tuesday that they would have the report ready at the next regular board meeting.

Discussion on out-of-state recruitment was prompted by a list of proposed recruiting dates for the 1969-70 school year set before the trustees.

Greenwood indicated that it was his intention to combine his recruiting trip in the East with his attendance at the American Association of School Administrators National Conference in Atlantic City.

He also said that a second trip porposed for him would, "in all probability," be taken by somebody else. But the trip would be made.

Trustee Edward Tomasello questioned the expense of the out-of-state recruiting in relation to what he feels has been the result of the effort.

Tomasello was told by Greenwood and Pagani that in the past two years the district has offered 56 contracts to out-of-staters and 25 of these contracts have been signed.

The trustees apparently doesn't feel this is a good enough ratio. As he put it, "12 weeks devoted to recruitment, equated against 12½ teachers per year."

Trustee William Schumacher also questioned the recruitment program. His interest seemed more aimed at why there wasn't more local (and statewide) recruiting.

"If we chose to be passive and wait for well-qualified teachers to knock on our door, we'll have along wait," said Pagani. "We need to locate the best for our children." He said the district's active recruiting is mainly out-of-state.

Pagani pointed out also that San Mateo has an extensive out-of-state recruiting policy. He added that it was necessary to "become well acquainted with placement directors of the out-of-state colleges."

Both Pagani and Greenwood admitted that numerous applicants from the Bay Area schools and Southern California come to the district applying for positions. It also was pointed out that the district received mail applications from 44 out-of-staters. But, said Pagani, "these came from the universities and colleges where we have recruited before."

Greenwood said expense "has been of a minimal type." One figure quoted was $3,100. "It is a desireable thing," said Greenwood, "and we should continue to maintain our contact with these colleges and universities."

Elementary Board To Discuss Audit

A special meeting has been set for 8 p.m. January 28 by the trustees of the Daly City Jefferson Elementary School District to discuss the district's audit.

Al Belotz, a certified public accountant who has been auditing the school district's books for the past several years, said he will be in attendance at the meeting.

The meeting, incidentally, was spurred by a question raised by Trustee Dorothy Adams at the December 16 meting. She wanted to know whether the board should establish a special meeting prior to the conclusion of the calendar year for purposes of receiving the 1968-69 audit.

She said at that time, "I believe in the law requires the report of the district audit for the year 1968-69 be presented to the board prior to December 31. Since the report has not yet been presented, would it be in order for the board to set a meeting for the audit?"

Superintendent Frank Grenwood told the trustees Tuesday night that state law requires only that the audit report be submitted to the county superintendent of schools and the county clerk prior to December 31.

This request of Mrs. Adams was but one of several points she brought out as part of an overall request of the county district attorney to investigate "whether the honor of the board or any of its duly constituted authority has been threatened."

Greenwood said he has conveyed the request to the district attorney's office, which will reply to the request.

Jefferson Hi District In 'Good Shape'

Attaching a lot of "ifs" to his presentation, Glenn South, assistant superintendent for business and finance in the Jefferson Union High School district, thinks that financially "for the first time in a long time we're in pretty good shape."

He added, however, "I hope."

In going over with trustees a preliminary draft budget this week, South said there was an indication the district's end-of-the-year deficit might be only $444,000.

This is constrasted with the $1,600,000 red-inked figures at the same time last year.

And the total figure will have to be adjusted, if there isn't the contemplated four per cent boost in assessed valuation, if certain federal funds are not received or if the delinquency rate is not as projected.

"We're probably in a much better position than a year ago," South said.

The overall budget probably will be eight-million dollars-plus, but many of the figures included in the first draft will not prove to be true when final budget time comes, South indicated.

Even the carryover balance, a series of figures prompting South's optimism, could be off somewhat.

Jefferson Hi Officials Voice Concern Over Auto Damage

Damage to cars belonging to administrators continues to be of concern to officials of the Jefferson High School District.

The topic came up last week at a study session of the district's board of trustees at Oceana High School in Pacifica.

District Superintendent Edward D. Morgan explained that vandals usually attack the cars of assistant principals who deal everything from scratch marks and symbols to broken radio antennas and smashed windows.

The district superintendent even lost a battery to thieves while his car was parked on a school parking lot.

The chance of the district picking up the tab for damage to these cars when it has occurred during school hours or while the owner is on official district business is slim.

Morgan pointed out that San Francisco School District has authorized payment for such damages there, based on that district's legal counsel, but the city controller has refused to make the payments on the advice of his own legal staff.

The superintendent noted, too, that state and national education journals have carried articles that indicated the problem to be nationwide.

Morgan said some districts (San Francisco and elsewhere) have obtained garages near campuses so that principals' cars would not be damaged.

There's no district insurance covering cars parked on school property — students, visitors, or staff, inasmuch as the cost has been reportedly "prohibitive."

These educators' cars suffer with discipline and attendance matters.

The district's insurance carriers have indicated they don't know of any district having such coverage.

Teachers and administrators are not required to park on the lots, it was pointed out, so the district itself is not liable.

Individual insurance carriers handle the claims.

Jeff El. Fears Money Veto

If President Richard Nixon vetoes a HEW - Labor - OEO bill for fiscal year 1970, as he promised, the Jefferson Elementary School District could be out $156,000.

Concerned about the possibility of this loss of school aid, trustees, on the recommendation of Superintendent Frank Greenwood, ordered a resolution be sent to the President, and the United States Senate.

Trustee Albert Collett asked that the appropriations bill, H.R. 13111, "as passed by the house and senate be approved as it was designed and intended by that legislation."

Greenwood, who brought the matter up during the discussion of two of the district's federal funded compensatory education programs, said "the battle is expected to commence on January 26."

Greenwood supplied this information:

That the President indicated he would veto the bill on the grounds it contains an excessive increase in Federal spending which would have an adverse effect on the battle against inflation.

If the veto is allowed to stand, not only will the Daly City school district be out, but schools and colleges across the nation will lose about $1.1 billion.

In a two-page synopsis handed the press by Greenwood, it was stated that "this case is a question of national priorities."

It was pointed out that the American public, through various polls, felt that although federal spending should be cut back, the last place they want that cut is in education.

"Educational costs have stretched the budgets of state and local agencies to the breaking point," said Greenwood's handout. "But the high-quality education which should be the right of every American still eludes too many of our youngsters. And especially in city ghettos and rural poverty areas, the lack of adequate educational programs contributes heavily to continued poverty, crime, and human misery."

The budget proposed by President Nixon for fiscal 1970 would have provided $3.2 billion for federal support of education. This would have been a reduction of $400 million as compared to 1969. House-Senate conferees agreed on a final education package that came to about $1.1 billion over the administration's budget.

It was just before the Congress adjourned at Christmas that the President indicated he intended to veto the education bill, possibly with a "pocket veto."

Greenwood pointed out that for those in education, the anticipated veto of the $1.1 billion in 1970 funds at issue is the most critical decision affecting American education. Because override of the veto, according to education forces, would place education in its proper place in national priorities.

Master Teacher Bill Is Pushed In South S.F.

There is interest in participating in the implementation of AB 741, the so-called "Master Teacher Bill," by the trustees of the South San Francisco Unified School District.

However, the administration apparently is having difficulty in obtaining the proper procedural materials. The matter, incidentally, had been up for discussion back in September and November, too.

Letters have been sent to Dr. Russell Kent, County Superintendent of Schools, and Assemblyman Leo Ryan, co-author of the bill, according to school officials. "The district has received no formal application blanks," they said.

Steam Is Unfeasible For Use By Utility

Representatives of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company have informed South San Francisco councilmen that it would be economically unfeasible for PG&E to use steam from the city's proposed garbage incinerator.

In a council study session Wednesday night PG&E mechanical engineer Andrew Ariey explained that the utility couldn't possibly amortize the cost of a necessary generating plant, and still pay the city for steam.

Ariey's report followed a request by the councilmen to check into the feasibility of using steam as a source of energy from the proposed incinerator. The engineer studied a proposal of the plant presented the city by Rust Engineering Company before making his statements.

Mayor Frank Bertucelil said the city officials still intend to pursue the possibility of installing an incinerator.

South San Francisco, incidentally, also received a letter from the City of Pacifica regarding its proposal and seeking support for possible use of Milagra Canyon site or garbage disposal.

Pacifica officials also have been discussing the Milagra Canyon site with San Bruno officials. Mayor Bertucelli said South San Francisco is open to any and all constructive suggestions.

An earlier possibility, that of using a 40-acre site owned by constructor Arthur "Buzz" Haskins, as a disposal area also is out.

Said Mayor Bertucelli, "too many people complained."

The city did receive as many as 35 letters of protest against the site next to the area in Cabot, Cabot and Forbes and Utah Industrial Parks.

It also was uncovered that when the land in question was sold by Utah Construction Company to Haskins, a covenant was included which forbid the land to be used for garbage disposal.

According to Edward Toby, of Toby Enterprises in the industrial park area, a request for a change in the covenant led to a poll of tenants in the area. Apparently there were 36 flatly opposed to the idea, two who didn't care and eight that might have been persuaded either way.

Therefore the covenant wasn't, and will not be, waived.

South San Francisco, without that dumpsite and now told resale of steam power is unfeasible from an incinerator, are in the same boat as most every city in the county. No one seems to know what to do about mounting garbage.

Mayor Bertucelli said South San Francisco, for one city, is going to seek aid through the board of supervisors. The garbage problem, he said, also will be brought up at the next meeting of the county's mayors.

Local Agencies Need Sewage Aid

Local governments cannot build sewage treatment facilities fast enough to protect the environment unless both Federal and State agencies provide more money on an accelerated scale, according to Ronald E. Robie of the State Water Resources Control Board.

Speaking at the regular meeting of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce Thursday, Robie said Bay Area cities should cooperate on treatment plants and work toward meeting requirements necessary to keeping the Bay clear of pollution.

"But the state can't regulate cooperation—that's up to the cities to get together," he said.

Robie pledged his agency would be "more than happy" to meet with any representative group to discuss their problems and suggestions of the question of water quality control.

The former assistant manager of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce declared 1970 "the year of the environment" and pointed out that in his State of the State message Governor Reagan emphasized the preservation of environment throughout California.

The State hopes to get some $60 million in federal aid this year for building and upgrading sewage treatment plants, but more help will be needed in the future from local governments, Robie explained.

These funds are a result of a $1 billion federal grant and okeyed for distribution to state projects this year and next.

When less than $230 million of this figure was actually alloacted by Washington, an organization calling itself "Citizens for Clean Water" went to the Capital and came away only after Congress promised to up the figure to $800 million.

But President Nixon must still give his stamp of approval before the funds can be spent.

In an all-out effort to protect environmental value, various water quality control boards have been established throughout the state.

Cable TV Programming Into Laguna

Teachers in the Laguna Salada School District will be able to offer an additional supplement to their classroom instruction, starting Monday, January 26, through the joint cooperation of the Pacifica Cable Company and the school District. A full day's schedule of instructional television programs, originating in the studios of KTEH in San Jose, will be re-broadcast via Cable Channel 8 to all of the local schools.

Marvin Morganti, Director of Curriculum, announced recently that this new programming has come about through the efforts of the San Mateo County School's office, and that in the past, instructional television programs have been viewed only by those supplied by Channel 9. With this new, extensive scheduling, many teachers are expected to broaden this supplementary aid of the curriculum. Programs running from 9 a.m. until 3:00 cover many curriculum areas and are aimed at all grade levels. Mr. Henry Gassman, Vice-President of the Pacifica Cable Company, indicated that the local outlet is pleased to cooperate with the schools in providing this service.

Legislation enacted in 1957 empowers school districts to participate in Instructional Television, and a reimbursement is made by the State for the cost of teachers' manuals and for providing the service within the district.

PERCUSSION

Army Private Neil L. Ferguson, 23, whose mother, Mrs. Marilyn Farrar, lives in Bellingham, Wash., was assigned Nov. 20 to the Sixth U.S. Army Band at the Presidio of San Francisco, as a percussionist.

His wife, Patricia, lives at 106 First Avenue, Daly City.

Hinton Is New Pacifica Fire Chief

Calvin Hinton, 43-year-old father of five who has been acting fire chief since January 1, when Ed Greer retired last week, was elevated to permanent chief of the Pacifica Fire Department.

Hinton, who had been a captain in the department for ten years prior to his elevation last year to assistant fire chief, was named by City Manager William Masonheimer.

Two other promotions are involved in the shift.

Named by the city manager to replace Hinton as assistant chief was Kenneth Donahue, a captain and a member of the department for 12 years.

Promoted into the 36-year-old Donahue's captaincy was John Murphy, a former policeman who has been a Pacifica fireman for six years.

Greer stepped down with a disability retirement.

S.S.F. Schools Aide Named

The South San Francisco Unified School District has appointed Donald Richards, 38, as the new head of the district's Classified Personnel Department.

Richards, a graduate of Golden Gate College and the University of Hawaii, hold a Master's degree in Public Administration. In addition to his college experience, Richards served as Personnel Recruitment Officer and Supervisor for Personnel while stationed at Travis Air Force Base.

County Rose Society Sets Demonstration Of Pruning

The San Mateo County Rose Society invites the public to attend a rose pruning demonstration to be held Thursday at 8 at the Baywood school, 600 Alameda de las Pulgas, San Mateo.

Clay Morgan of Burlingame, consulting rosarian, accredited rose judge, and past president of the San Mateo County Rose Society, will demonstrate the proper pruning technique for pruning in this area.

Following Morgans demonstration there will be a "do-it-yourself" pruning session by members and guests under the watchful eye of our consulting rosarians.

This will give them a chance to put to immediate use the knowledge they have gained from Morgans demonstration.

This will be the first program under the new officers installed at a recent dinner at the Shadows in San Mateo.

Joseph Klima of Kentfield, past president of the American Rose Society, was the installing officer.

Taking office with Dr. Gallagher were Jack Connors of San Mateo, vice president and program chairman; Mrs. Wesley Waldon of Hillsborough, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Emil Rehm of Belmont, recording secretary; and Mrs. Sam McSwain of San Mateo, treasurer.

Trophies were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ehm of San Mateo to the winners of the yearly competition in the monthly rose shows. The winners were: specimen blooms, amatuer division, Don Marshall; speciman blooms, novice division, June Connors; arrangement division, Betty Odom.

Emil Stiefvater was presented with the Lucille Horn trophy as the member who contributed the most to the society in the past year.

Don Marhsll presented Stiefvater with a pair of silver rose cuff-links on behalf of the board members. Stiefvater already had a past presidents pin for his tour of duty in 1959.

Refershment will be served. Mrs. Iva Newman and Mrs. Lucille Horn, two of the charter members, will cut the traditional anniversary cake. They will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Max Burnett, refreshment chairmen.

The San Mateo County Rose Society meets the fourth Thursday of every month at 8 p.m. at the Baywood school in San Mateo.

All meetings are open to the public, without charge.

'Renaissance Dance'

Boys dressed in tunics, escorting their ladies-in-waiting, who will be draped in long flowing gowns with balloon sleeves, are to be part of the festive "old-world" mood at Westmoor's "Renaissance Dance," sponsored by Westmoor High School's Art Club, January 29, from 8 to 11 p.m.

In keeping with the theme of A Rennaisance costume ball, students are asked to come wearing a costume of their choice from any era of time. Tunes for dancing "minuets" will be provided by two groups, "Hell and High Water" and "Jomocca & Triad and Friends."

Westmoor's Cafeteria will undergo transformation as the the Art Club members have been busily painting pennants of various colors and designs from fleur de lis to dots and wavy lines. The pennants will adorn the poles, while others will be strung along the wires from pole to pole.

Changes In Cast For Forthcoming Spindrift Play

Casting has been completed for the Pacifica Spindrift Players' upcoming production of Edward Albee's Pulitzer Prize Play, "A Delicate Balance," according to director Rod Clark.

Cast in the lead roles of Agnes and Tobias in the morality play which pits its characters against one another are Sydney Clark of Pacifica and Eugene Merwin of Daly City.

Both are experienced in the field of acting and community theatre.

Assuming the role of Agnes in the place of Jo Anne Gaudio, Mrs. Clark has had extensive experience in community theatre and was last seen in the local production of Jean Paul Satre's "No Exit." She also directed "Burning Bright" and was co-director with her husband, Rod Clark (also director of this production) last year for "The Rainmaker."

In accepting the lead role, Mrs. Clark left a vacancy for the role of Claire, now to be performed by Sharon Almeida of San Bruno. Mrs. Almeida has been a member of the PSP Board of Directors and was last seen as Elvira in the recent showing of "Blithe Spirit."

Originally, Mrs. Almeida was scheduled to be assistant director of "A Delicate Balance" and that position is still open, according to Rod Clark, production director.

Merwin, last seen in the PSP production of "Barnaby," is a well-known mainstay of the PSP having handled directing duties in season's past, as well as having directed a school of theatre.

Supporting roles were captured from the thirty auditioners by Sydney Clark, Berniece Olson, Luther Spraker, and Jeanne Patzold. They will play: Claire, the alcoholic sister; Edna and Harry, the neighbors who have lost their own delicate balance in the relationship of their marriage; and Julia, Agnes' and Harry's daughter who returns home after her fourth unsuccessful marriage.

In making the casting announcements, Clark also announced the following stage crew heads for the play, scheduled to open a three weekend run on February 20: Assistant Director, Sharon Almeida; Stage Manager, Robert Southworth; Business Manager, Darrel Greer; Properties, Kurt Russ and Kathy Hawkins; Lighting and Sound, Gary Nelson; Wardrobe, Marge Russ; Set Construction, John Craig.

Hostess, Grace Ryan; House Manager, Ethel Wallace; Tickets, Darrel Greer; Publicity, Aubrey Lumley and Gil West; Programs, Ginny Johnson, and Makeup Supervisor, Charlene

Mothers In Daly City Set March

While the world continues to marvel at our walks on the moon, a dedicated group of women in Daly City will have their feet on the ground January 27 for the annual March of Dimes Mothers' March against birth defects.

Now considered an American tradition, it will take place this year in Daly City under the direction of Mrs. Anthony Giammona of 159 Santa Paula; Mrs. Matthew Jenkins of 835 Hanover Street and Mrs. Jim Mancuso of 192 Shipley Street, Daly City.

"We want to saturate neighborhoods this year with Marchers," they agreed. "Our goal is the preventing of birth defects, a cause which touches every family. What better insurance could there be than helping to support the steady expansion of the March of Dimes programs in research, education, patient care and community services."

Since 1958 the voluntary health organization has established a nationwide network of 111 Birth Defects Centers and has initiated year-round prenatal care and public health education projects, as well as professional education programs.

These mothers have no disagreements or doubts — only one common cause about the urgency of carrying on the right to prevent birth defects tomorrow, while helping the unfortunate victims of congenital disorders today.

Birth defects strike a quarter of a million newborn babies every year in our country.

Louis Gazzano will be working with the mothers and will also serve as City Chairman for Daly City.

Mrs. Giammona, Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Mancuso invite anyone interested in volunteering for the fund-raising campaign to call them or M.O.D. Headquarters at 347-5258.

Beauty Queen Applications Flood Pacifica

An overabundance of applicants for the 1970 Miss Pacifica Pegeant has necessitated the pageant committee in organizing two nights of preliminary competition to be held the first week of February. While applications are still open, and will be through January 30, plans are being made to judge the prospective candidates for Miss Pacifica in three areas: Talent, Swimsuit and personality interview. Although the preliminaries will not be open to the public, two nights were required because so many young women from Pacifica are seeking the crown to represent the city of Pacifica at the state finals for Miss California in June in Santa Cruz. The winner of that title will go onto Miss America in September and if she captures that title, whe will receive over $10,000 in college scholarships and a personal appearance contract worth approximately $75,000.

The local pageant finals will be held April 25, at Terra Nova High School.

High School. It will be there that the semi-finalists selected at the upcoming preliminaries will be viewed in competition in an extravagant show that has become the trademark of the Miss Pacifica Pageant. Competition for the semi-finals will also include evening gown as well as talent and swimsuit judging. Local girls who are still interested in competing for the more than $1,000 in local scholarships and additional prizes and the chance at Miss California and Miss America in this golden year of the national pageant are urged to obtain their applications from Mrs. Stan (Irma) Vander Hule, 1166 Mason Drive or The Miss Pacifica Pageant, 1641 Higgins Way, Pacifica. Candidates must be between the ages of 18 and 28 and a high school graduate as of September 7, 1970, and must be a resident of the City of Pacifica.

The topic of the meeting will be San Mateo County in the '70s and will include such subjects as rapid transit, housing planning and development, pollution, regional planning, saving the bay.

Mrs. Fassler, former three-time mayor of Pacifica, is serving her second term as board chairman.

Her last term, in 1967, was the first time a woman had ever chaired the Board of Supervisors in San Mateo County.

Mrs. Fassler, Fifth District supervisor, represents the coastside area, from Daly City to Half Moon Bay. She is a member of the President's Citizens Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality and recently attended a meeting in Washington, D.C.

NELL NORTON

(Sugar 'n Spice)

Good morning, good cooks.

The weather report reads, "rainy and windy" and that means many of us are sticking closer to home these days. Personally I like rainy weather and having to stay home has many bonuses. Closets are cleaned and rearranged, much delayed ironing and mending finished and, best of all, new cooking ideas tested.

Among my recipes I found this one for noodles that is delcious. The paper yellow with age, which gives you an idea of how well I keep up with things, but I'm glad I kept it for it makes a very nice dish.

NOODLES ROMANOFF

1 8-ounce package wide egg noodles
1 cup buttermilk
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup (½ pint) small curd cottage cheese
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 teaspoon worchestershire sauce
½ cup chopped green onions, including tops
3 tablespoons butter
1-3 cup sliced almonds

Cook the eight-ounces noodles in boiling salted water as directed on package, until barely tender. Drain thoroughly.

Combine the cup buttermilk, 3 slightly beaten eggs, cup cottage cheese, half teaspoon salt, fourth teaspoon black pepper, teaspoon worcestershire sauce and half cup chopped green onions.

Gently stir in noodles and pour into buttered 1½-quart casserole. Cover and bake in 375-degree oven for 30 minutes or until set.

Meanwhile melt the three tablespoons butter in small skillet over low heat; add the third cup almonds and saute until lightly browned. Sprinkle over casserole before serving. Serves 6.

DO YOU HAVE ANY buttermilk drinkers in your home? I don't so I feel I have to be saving and look around for recipes to use up the remaining milk. In case you are in the same boat, here are a couple of goodies.

SOFT SUGAR COOKIES

½ cup margarine (one cube)
1 cup sugar
1 egg yolk
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup buttermilk
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 egg white

In a mixing bowl cream the half cup margarine, one cup sugar and egg yolk until light and fluffy. Stir together the two cups sifted flour, half teaspoon each soda and salt. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the half cup buttermilk, mix in the half teaspoon vanilla. Fold in the beaten egg white.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Flatten slightly and sprinkle with granulated sugar.

Bake in 375-degree oven about 20 minutes or until nicely browned. Makes about 3 dozen.

THIS RECIPE is for a coffee cake that is a beauty. It is reputed to have good staying qualities, however that is hard to prove, for it's so good that it's eaten too fast to find out whether it keeps well.

BUTTERMILK COFFEE RING

1½ sticks (three-quarter cup) soft margarine or butter
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs
3 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
¼ cup raisins

STREUSEL MIXTURE

½ cup brown sugar, packed
1-3 cup flour
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ stick (one-fourth cup) soft butter or margarine

Preheat oven to 350-degrees.

Combine the half cup brown sugar, one-third cup flour, two teaspoons cinnamon and fourth cup butter and set aside.

Cream the three-fourths cup butter with the one and one-half cups sugar. Add the three eggs and beat until light and fluffy.

Sift together the three cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon each soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with the cup buttermilk, mixing until just blended. Stir in the tablespoon orange rind.

Turn half the batter into greased and floured 10-inc tube pan. Sprinkle half the streusel mixture over the batter; sprinkle the fourth cup raisins over streusel mixture. Top with remaining batter and streusel mixture.

Bake 20 to 30 minuntes, until cake tests done. Let cake stand in pan for 15 minutes before removing. Sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar.

YWCA Nursery Tots 'Master Impulse As Well As Ideas'

By BARBARA REICH
San Mateo County YWCA

Should I send my child to nursery school?

This is a question that is asked in nearly every family that contains young children. A few years ago, the popular answer given by many professional educators was that nursery school might accelerate many children beyond the level of kindergarten, and, therefore, the child would be bored in kindergarten.

No, the answer to this same question is generally quite different. In fact, some authorities feel that kindergarten is much too late to begin many of the social adjustments which are made through nursery school experiences.

The average child in the age group two years nine months through five years is struggling with strong feelings and impulses.

"Play the way the child wants to play," is the heart of the nursery school curriculum, according to Mrs. Joyce Call, director of the YWCA-sponsored Widget World Nursery School. Through supervised play, she says, the child masters impulses as well as ideas; he can express aggressive feelings and manage them without doing harm to others or to himself.

He learns to express his feelings in socially acceptable ways by channeling his aggressive impulses into constructive activities.

Several mothers with children in the YWCA Widget World Nursery School were questioned recently about the benefits they felt their child derived from nursery school attendance.

"The group discipline and marvelous opportunity for children to play with things not available at home," said the mother of one 4-year-old girl.

"Getting away from home, being with lots of other children, she loves it," said another.

"Learning to cope with group situations, amuse herself, getting along with and playing other children in an organized and supervised surrounding," was important to the mother of a girl two years, nine months old.

Mrs. Call concluded her comments regarding nursery school by saying that she had observed that a great deal of classroom time in kindergarten was spent in discipline. If a child can develop and learn through nursery school experiences to trust and control himself and get used to the school atmosphere, then, by the time he has entered kindergarten his energies can be directed toward intellectual development.

Widget World Nursery School is located at 222 Avalon Drive in Daly City. Anyone interested in details and enrollment information should contact the YWCA office, 375 South Mayfair, in the Westlake Shopping Center, Daly City.

BONNIE MacBIRD, Miss Industrial City 1969, has been selected as one of ten finalists in the Miss San Mateo County Pageant to be held March 14. The county pageant is a preliminary to the Miss California and Miss America pageants which follow. The directors of the Miss Industrial City Pageant have announced that entries are now being accepted for the 1970 pageant to be held April 11 at El Camino High School in South San Francisco. Entrants must be at least 17 years old, live, work, or attend school in South San Francisco. Prospective applicants may get more information at Schumacher's School of Dance (Sunshine Gardens Shopping Center) or Swenson's Ice Cream (Westborough Plaza).

A Drug Abuse Program Set

The Skyline P-TA will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., in the Daly City school's multi-purpose room.

Girl Scout Meeting Set

A Jefferson High School counselor, Miss Julie Jansen, will speak on the subject, "What Is Daly City?" when the Daly City Girl Scout ssociaton meets at 7:30 p.m,, January 22,

Miss Jansen's talk ill include discussion of social, racial and intellectual status of the community's youth, according to Mrs. Gary Nielsen.

THE NORTH PENINSULA CIRCLE for the Florence Crittenton Home will convene for the purpose of holding its annual meeting tomorrow at noon, according to Mrs. Thomas Bocci, Jr., the publicity chairman for the circle.

Members will hear final reports on 1969 projects and then install new officers during the luncheon meeting in the Golden Coach restaurant.

Mrs. Charles Poggio will receive her gavel of office during the brief ceremonies which will also invest Mrs. Frank Greenwood with the authority and duties of the vice presidency. Other new officers include Mrs. Paul Hupf, secretary; Mrs. Aldo Mori, treasurer, and Mrs. Paul Walters, corresponding secretary.

In other times on the agenda members will welcome two new faces to the circle. According to Mrs. Bocci, Mrs. Mario Mandoli and Mrs. David Heikka will be introduced to the membership during the afternoon and Mrs. Eugene Crandall and Mrs. Jerry Stringer, the co-chairmen of the annual fashion show, will announce the preliminary plans for this spring's luncheon-fashion event.

The circle calendar reveals that April 30 has been set aside for the show which will be held in the Thunderbolt Hotel in Millbrae.

IN THE EVENT that you have taken advantage of the rainy weather to do a little closet cleaning or interior redecorating you may find yourself with some usable, but unwanted, clothing, furniture or bric-a-brac. Should that be the case, Mrs. John Lagomarsino, publicity chairman of the Holy Angels Women's Guild, would like to call to your attention the fact that the guide is now seeking rummage for an upcoming sale.

Mrs. Joseph Cadera and Mrs. Gloria Rodriguez are the co-chairmen of the fund (raiser) slated for the parish hall on February 7. The committee is seeking clean, usable clothing, furniture, small appliances, bric-a-brac, books and records. Good response from the community will enable the committee to offer a wide spectrum of merchandise to bargain hunters.

Donations may be left at 50 Edgemont Avenue or taken to the "rummage barn" across from 1560 Bryant Street in Colma on any Thursday or Saturday between 10 a.m. and noon.

Committee membes will be sorting and pricing items between now and the February date. The rummage will be sold during an all-day sale in the parish hall. Shoppers who come early will have the benefit of being able to make selections from a wider variety of objects and they may stay to enjoy a light snack which will be sold during the afternoon.

THE WESTLAKE CATHOLIC Women will begin selling tickets for their annual fashion show this Saturday at 10 a.m. in Our Lady of Mercy Parish Hall, according to Mrs. James Keleher, publicity chairman.

Mrs. Albert Fambrini and Mrs. J. Jay Flynn are the co-chairmen of the reservations committee and they will have ticket saleswomen in the hall until noon, accepting reservations, Mrs. Keleher said. Tables seating 8, 10 or 12 will be arranged in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco for the February 7 luncheon and style showing. Tickets are being sold for $6 per person.

Mr. Keleher stressed that no reservations will be accepted over the phone, but that persons wishing information about reservations are asked to contact Mrs. Fambrini or Mrs. Flynn, both of Daly City.

Mrs. Victor A. Sariotti and Mrs. Frank Clifford are the co-chairmen of the show which has been titled Fashions Americana. Red, white and blue bunting and stars and stripes will decorate the elegant ballroom as fashions from H. Liebes are worn by models strolling down the fashionway to music by Maurice Wolohan and his orchestra.

DALY CITY MEN who enjoy a hearty crab chiappino feast are asked to accept the invitation of the Westlake Catholic Men's Club to a stag dinner in Our Lady of Mercy Parish Hall on Friday evening at 6:30 p.m.

Chuck Boerio is the general chairman of the dinner and Frank Kelechava is the reservations chairman. Tickets, costing $3.50, will be available through tomorrow. Interested persons are asked to call Kelechava, 755-7732, immediately.

THE EXECUTIVE board of the Art Guild of Pacifica will meet Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Lucille Sutherlin at 8 p.m.

Plans for installation of new officers will be discussed.

The January evening meeting of the Fifty-Plus Club will be held next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Linda Dillard, a member of the club, will present films and information about California City, a planned community being built in Southern California.

THE MARQUEE

Studied Nazis From Books

Helmut Berger at age 24 wasn't the least bit prepared to play the lead role in Luchino Visconti's highly controversial film drama, "The Damned." The young Austrian was physically and emotionally capable of depicting the neurotic heir to a rich and degenerate German steel family during the Thirties but intellectually, he knew less about that historical era than most American boys.

"They don't teach you anything about German history after World War 1 in our schools. All the old teachers were ex-Nazis and if the subject came up, they'd just make excuses for Hitler. There is still a lot of anti-Semitism in Germany," the slim, blond, blue-eyed actor explained yesterday at the Fairmont Hotel.

We'd spent a week together during the Warner Bros. Film Festival in the Bahamas where "The Damned" was first previewed for critics in June but most of the limelight was on the big stars and Berger isn't pushy about getting personal publicity. Now that the film has received fantastic reviews from New York and Los Angeles, the young actor is getting his due acclaim.

I've never been so impressed with a single newcomer. Berger is incredibly good, in a role that is as emotionally demanding as Hamlet. It's a tall order for someone fresh out of acting school with only three Italian movie roles to his credit.

"I got all the background for Martin from reading "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" and "Fox in The Attic.' Mr. Visconti shoots 20 minute scenes at a time. He left me free to develop my own character and I know he is pleased with my work," the shy European explained in a thick Austrian accent.

HE FEARS HIS ACCENT WILL KEEP HIM FROM GETTING MANY ROLES but claims there's always a call for Swedes, or mid-Europeans. He'd like to act opposite Mia Farrow, Julie Christie and Dustin Hoffman. Now that the film has been screened by the Academy Award committees for consideration in the Oscar race, it's likely he'll be made an important offer. The young student in 'Fiddler On The Roof' movie is something he feels he'd be right for.

"Naturally the Germans hate the film. Not the young people; only the older generation. I don't think even my parents will like it. It opens next month in Germany and already I'm reading terrible things they're saying about me."

"I didn't look for work in Germany because all they make is pornographic films. They call them sex education and few ever can be exported. Now I don't want to play another degenerate, perhaps a contemporary role."

BERGER LEFT HOME AT 18 TO STUDY LANGUAGES. He knew he wanted to be a movie actor (has no desire to act on the stage) so learned English in London, French at the Sorbonne in Paris and Italian in Perugia. He finished college in Switzerland and in 1964 moved to Rome, now his permanent home, to break into movies.

Visconti gave him his first job in a film with Silvana Mangano (Le Streghe), and as the great Italian filmmaker's protege, he'll be very cautious about what he accepts next. He has just completed "Me, Dorian Gray," set in swinging mod London.

Since I first saw "Damned," an account of how the desire for power corrupts, Warner Bros. has deleted some footage, notably a scene where a teenage girl hangs herself.

"Visconti always shows extremes. It's his way of telling a story. But that scene is back in for the European market. We encountered prejudice in making the film. They wouldn't let us shoot into the German factories. We did it in an Italian steel factory and most of the extras are Italian boys," said Berger.

Visconti told us in the Bahamas that he's asked frequently why he didn't make a film about Italy.

"If I make a film on Fascism, it would have to be a comedy."

Berger feels the movie was conceived because Visconti wanted to show how "destructive it can be to hold onto any fanatical political theory, like socialism. And he believes that the younger generation should know what really happened with the SS and SA troops during Hitler's rise to power."

PLANNING TABLE decorations for "Fashions Americana," are members of the Westlake Catholic Women. The group will present its sixteenth annual fashion show and luncheon on February 7 in the Fairmont Hotel. Shown (left to right) are Mrs. Victor Sariotti, chairman of the show; and Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos and Mrs. Tenney Campbell, decorations chairmen. Mrs. Albert Fambrini and Mrs. J. Jay Flynn, not shown, will be at Our Lady of Mercy parish hall, 1 Elmwood Drive, Daly City on January 24, from 10 a.m. to noon, to take reservations.

GARAGE SALE — The Garden Village School multi-purpose room will be transformed into a "garage" — at least in content — from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. January 24, when the unincoporated Colma school's P-TA sponsors a garage sale. Mrs. Charles Fleischer (left), president Mrs. Bert Gamberg and Mrs. R. Lippi make final plans for the event. Usable discards should be left at the multi-use room. (Post Photo)

WCW Tells Models For Style Show

Chankalian Pottery Art On Display

Pottery and ceramic sculpture by Gary Chankalian is presently featured at Periwinkle Art Gallery in Pacifica.

Gary is a 16-year-old student at Oceana High School and studies ceramics with William La Forge. Using large masses of clay, he has combined slab construction and wheel thrown parts in several unique pottery-sculture pieces.

In conjunction with the pottery is a group show of paintings and serigraphs by various artists in the bay area.

Painting classes are scheduled in the gallery on Monday, Wednesday or Friday nights. Classes will be taught by Gerald Wolfert.

Serramonte High School News

By SHARON HYMAN
Serramonte High School

Under the direction of Tom Fitzpatrick, Serramonte High's radio station has opened in the Student Government office.

The station itself is located in the student office, although it transmits to all three parts of the student union.

At first the radio station broadcasted only to the cafeteria section of the student union. Then, a few days later, it was heard in the student lounge. Broadcasts are heard daily from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

There will be two to four people running the station at a time, taking one hour shifts.

Daryl Jones is the chief student in charge of the radio station. He is teaching other students to use the equipment, and other activities behind the scenes.

Anita Brooks reads the bulletin all over the school in the mornings from the radio station. Other students in the radio station include Larry Weinberg, Norm Maslov, Dany Walker, Dave Silverman, John Gerrone, and Mike Garrity.

The radio station is just one of the many activities Serramonte hopes to put into operation during the time students eat lunch.

Another project might be dancing in the carpeted area of the student union during the lunch periods.

The Photography Club of Serramonte is now planning its first annual film festival to be held on April 6-April 11.

Heading the committee are David Bacon, Dave Long, and Larry Beukers.

Daily lunchtime showings of short and student-made films, plus after-school showings of full length Hollywood films are planned.

The committee has written letters to both the London and New York offices of Apple Records asking for a copy of "Magical Mystery Tour." It's not final, but it's a possibility.

The highlight of the festival will be the night of April 10, where all student-made films will be shown and then judged in the categories of Photography, Editing, Special Effects, Music Selection, and Development of Theme. Inscribed plaques and cash awards will be given to the winners.

On January 16, the drama class of Serramonte High School presented themselves as The Last Generation in "If It Feels Right, Do It," a night of improvisations and fun.

Bruno Chamber Honors Pan Am

The San Bruno Chamber of Commerce will issue a commemorative coin celebrating the first flight of Pan American's 747 jet airliner.

At their first meeting this year, the board of directors of the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce approved issuing an antique golden bronze 12-gauge coin. Chamber Vice-President Norman Merkel, FAA control tower chief, presented the program calling for 2,000 coins to be issued, including a limited edition of silver coins and souvenir paperweights.

"The obverse side will feature Pan Am's 747 and the reverse side will contain the seal of the City of San Bruno," Merkel said. "We hope to have the coins for sale in March when Pan Am will start regular flights on their new 747's from the airport."

Chamber accountant Jack Fisher reported that the San Bruno business organization ended the calendar year solvent. "This is the first time I can remember we start a new year in good condition," he added.

"We are planning many beneficial projects for 1970," Chamber President Donald Risso said. "We can now go ahead to better serve the city, including direct service to the residents and businessmen."

Risso appointed 12 committees to follow through on chamber projects. Among them is a beautification committee headed by Harry Astells along with Art Basmajian, Josh Maule III, and Tom Palmer.

"I am hoping this will be a working committee that will get results," the chamber president said. "The first thing I would like to see them work on is doing something about the unsightly entrance to San Mateo Avenue from El Camino Real."

In other action, the board of directors officially accepted the membership of John McLain of J. M. Construction Company.

"We soon will start our 1970 membership drive," A. M. Race, membership development chairman, announced. "Along with John Berglund and Jim Faverman, we will begin a dynamic program to recruit new members."

The San Bruno Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors also heard reports from William Schneider: Ticket sales to the 1970 Installation Dinner at the Hilton Inn being held Saturday, January 17, are going well; Karney Barberian reported progress on the "Airport City Open" Golf Tournament scheduled for May as part of "Aviation Appreciation Week."

Post-Times Writer

BEFORE HE STEPPED DOWN as chairman of the County Human Relations Commission, Assembly-aspirant Frank Spadarella handed this column a note regarding what transpired on December 18, 1969, when a resolution was adopted by his fellow commissioners referring to the HRC's Police Community Relations Committee the possibility of a county wide standard on the use of guns by policemen. Spadarella explains in his notes several items that were not brought out in local news stories of the event.

But the local stories did bring out some facts and feelings not recited in a copy of the minutes that arrived on this reporter's battered old desk.

THE EXPLOSION OF LETTERS, notes, phone calls and excuses began shortly after this column appeared in The Post some three weeks ago under the heading "You can't teach an Old Dog New Tricks . . ." One paragraph dealt with the question of the HRC setting up some sort of police review board.

Spadarella assures this is not the case and the matter of police firearms use was brought up for discussion in the wake of two shootings on the Peninsula. Matter of fact, the discussion was brought up as a "grievance."

The procedure for handling such grievances is to check them out and turn them over to appropriate committees. The system — to date — has worked out rather well, both sides claim.

"One of the most important goals of the HRC is to establish trust and confidence between community and police, by removing areas of doubt and to seek better relations between the two," Spadarella explained.

STORIES CIRCULATING that the HRC directed its Police Community Relations Committee to draft a county wide firearms ordinance are misleading, at the very least. The HRC can't prescribe county ordinances on law enforcement because each police department operates under the control of the city council.

The HRC is made up of 15 members chosen by the Board of Supervisors and they are free to talk about anything to do with bettering conditions within the county in a public meeting. Spadarella wanted it clearly understood "that statements made by one or two commissioners hardly constitutes the feeling of the commission itself."

In a summation of the entire matter, Spadarella adamantly stood by his statements that the HRC was in no way trying to set up a Police Review Board or to pass judgments on police, rather they want to cooperate with police in settling gripes as they arise.

Meanwhile, as we said before "time will tell."

They Learn Their Art While In School

The medium is the message, according to Marshall McLuhan, the Canadian guru of modern communications, and today both media and message are visual — TV, films, photographs, picture magazines, poster art. Even computers are going visual; now they show their out-put on cathode ray tubes (television screens), so that printed word and visual image become one and the same.

Today, a young child logs thousands of hours in front of the TV screen, long before he even gets to kindergarten. The pre-schooler spends more time watching television than he will in all his years in the classroom.

"But," asks Pat Broderick, an English instructor at Mills High School, "where in the curriculum does a student learn about the grammar or the syntax of film or TV? How can we call TV a vaste wasteland if we have not done anything to show kids any kind of values — good or bad, worthwhile or trash?"

In a number of high schools across the country, teachers are doing something to bridge what many consider a vital educational gap. High school students are hip to the "communication revolution" — after all, they're the target of much of it — and almost by osmosis, film making and related arts are finding their way into the curriculum of many high schools, including those of the San Mateo Union High School District.

"These kids are the TV generation," says one teacher of her students. Miss Ann Jennings is one of the teachers of an experimental humanities course at Capuchino High School which has done some film and photography work. She continues, "They are visually oriented. But the TV generation is used to being spectators, and the students need to participate actively, to get involved in creating things. Film is a good way for them to experience the creative process themselves."

The objective of Miss Jenning's humanities program is to "discover the possibilities of human experience" She says the work the class has done in still photography (e.g., slide and tape presentations) and movie making "fits right in with the value of film work.

Broderick, too, feels that film making and the visual arts have a legitimate place in the classroom. "Making a film is as valid as writing an essay for learning how to communicate. It takes organization, logic — all of the elements that go into an essay — to make a film that

Bob Klang teaches English at San Mateo High School and, like Broderick, is one of the faculty leaders of the district's nascent film activity. He agrees with his colleague about the value of film work.

"Kids learn about film making and about communicating their ideas." It takes "tremendous discipline" to bring together all the different dimensions involved in creating a film — discipline which is "no different from other kinds of academic discipline." Both essay writer and film maker begin with a hypothesis and follow similar intellectual processes to make their statement in the most effective way possible.

TROOP 43 (Girl Scouts), where are you? We've been stumbling across the same picture for some weeks now . . . will someone, please, contact me so we can learn what it's all about, and we'd really like to, since it's one of the few things we've had concerning individual Daly City Girl Scout Association troop activities in months.

It's what the girls of individual troops are doing that counts, and the more we get about their activities, projects and achievements the more worthwhile it all is, for everyone!

VISTA MAR SCHOOL in Daly City must be the biggest rabbit hutch around here today. Principal Marge Tobias announced excitedly yesterday morning the anticipated arrival of new rabbits to "the farm."

Instead of the usual four or six rabbits that inhabit the Vista Mar play yard area, from time to time becoming tame and most friendly as they grow up, there are ten, born sometime late Monday or early Tuesday.

Vista Mar almost always has a crop of rabbits, ever since Miss Tobias' secretary gave up her family's two pet rabbits when a daughter became allergic to them.

"They were tame as could be," said Miss Tobias. And those that have followed have been also, and often go to the door to meet her when she goes to the conference room.

Miss Tobias maintains a "rabbit file" at her office. It has names of youngsters eager to have a rabbit for a pet.

We have one, and so does one class at Garden Village School. The way things go with rabbits—you might have one, too.

OUR WAIL: Guess we might as well get all the bad stuff settled, wrapping up in one big package all the boo-boos of last week:

So, It's Papan, not Pappan (page one headline) . . . the basketball player on the sports page was not Pinky Smith of Jeff, but Jim Lewis of Westmoor . . . "Karney" Barberian is the San Bruno councilman, not Barney Barberian . . . and South San Francisco didn't reject a "sale offer," merely a lower rental figure than they subsequently proposed themselves (page one headline). For those of you who found others, it's too late — we deny any of last week's errors after today, which will offer its own rewards . . .

Diseases That Plague Us

A NEW STRAIN of malaria is infecting American troops in Vietnam. It resists the conventional antimalarial drugs and responds only to the "Old Grandma Remedy," quinine.

This is a fact revealed in Richard Gallagher's book, "Diseases That Plague Modern Man."

"Malaria has many names," he writes. "Its origin is Italian, mala aria, meaning literally, bad air." The World Health Organization reports there is so much malaria in the world today it would take one billion, six hundred and ninety million dollars to eradicate it.

MALARIA IS ONE OF TEN diseases discussed in Gallagher's book. The others are Cholera, Influenza, Leprosy, Belharziasis, Onchocerciasis, the Plague, Smallpox, Syphilis and Tuberculosis. The first chapter in the book is a thoroughly readable introduction presenting the authors belief that all communicable diseases are caused by one of four things:

(1) plant-like organisms (which means yeasts, molds and bacteria; (2) animal organisms, generally protozoa; (3) Viruses and (4) Rickettsiae, which are microrganisms found in ticks, lice, fleas and mice.

Gallagher's book is recommended to adult and young adult readers for informative reading. School students will find here information for reports that will bring good grades.

The article on influenza is stuffed with information. Influenza literally means influence — During the Middle Ages, man attributed it to the influence of the stars. Later its miseries were thought to have come from the influence of wind, especially winter winds.

ALTHOUGH "THE FLU" with its chills and fevers may seem a mild disease compared to malaria, smallpox, and tuberculosis, it ranks number six among the killer diseases in the United States. In 1963 more than 57,000 perished in a nation-wide epidemic. Influenza is the most universal disease known to modern men and its origin is as remote as mankind's.

At one time, "the flue" killed the Lord Mayor of London, then it killed his successor and six aldermen. Because of influenza, King Henry VII had to postpone his coronation.

In Gemany, 15,000 people in the city of Augsberg died from the "flu" in five days. When the Turks besieged Vienna in 1529, so many, many of their soldiers caught the flu, they had to withdraw and go home.

The last chapter in Mr. Gallagher's book describes the activists of the World Health Organization and tells of its needs in the battle for a better world. The last chapter is followed by a glossary of some important communicable disease terms.

THE AUTHOR'S purpose in writing of the diseases that plague modern man is to retrace the history of the diseases because "men cannot work on the future without knowledge of what has gone before."

A 'Political Kingmaker'?

It is unlikely that Edward Kennedy will ever be elected President. He may seek a nomination and may even succeed in being nominated. But it is a long time between August and November, and the chances are that he would be defeated in any future presidential election.

This is not the result of the inquest of Edgartown. It follows rather from the questions in the public mind related to the events of last July. Subsequent legal proceedings, if they have had any effect, have been favorable to the Senator.

Nonetheless, his role in politics remains secure. The Kennedy family has become a national institution. As its sole surviving adult male, Senator Kennedy is in an imposing position.

First: not likely to become a king, he is in a position to act as the nation's foemost kingmaker. As yet, there is no evidence that he has started to play this formidable role; but the opportunity is so natural and the Kennedy family so political that it is likely that he will.

President - watchers will continue to view the family compound at Hyannisport — not to look for a President to rise from its grounds for one or more decades, but to observe the list of visitors. In the immediate future, they will come from all points of the compass — Senator Muskie from the north, Hubert Humphrey from the heartland, and perhaps even John Lindsay from New York. Sargent Shriver will be more resident than guest.

Senators Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern are improbable supplicants because of their differences with the late Senator Robert Kennedy. Any journey from the Pedernales to the seaside is unthinkable.

Senator Kennedy must bear in mind that no one seeks the support of a kingmaker who might himself be king. He will probably be wise enough to remove himself from the lists in order to be of maximum influence. If he does this, he could be a key figure in American politics for the next 30 years. Should he choose to run himself, the only question is whether he would be defeated at a convention or at the polls in some future November.

Second, as senior family member, he inherits some of the tasks formerly performed by Joe Kennedy, Sr. There can be little doubt that among the children of Jack, Bob, Ted and the Kennedy sisters, there are potential Senators, Governors and perhaps even a President. The task of family head alone could occupy Senator Kennedy's full time.

Third, he is an incumbent U.S. Senator. Although faced with substantial opposition in the coming election, indications are that the Massachusetts electorate like and elect Kennedys and aren't about to drop the habit. As Senator, he can continue to affect national policy.

All this has great significance for political parties. These wax and wane. There is presently some silliness in the press about the Democratic Party disappearing from the scene. The same pundits, seers and wise men are repeating almost in exactly the same language their words of 1964 as then applied to the Republican Party.

They fail to understand that with the American two-party system, parties don't rise and fall as they do in France but, rather, they move, step back, absorb, decline and grow but remain about the same in strength and nature. If Senator Kennedy will forget himself and his own aspirations, he can insure a strengthened Democratic Party in the coming decade.

A spin off of the far left is the principal contemporary danger facing the two party system. By acting wisely, Senator Kennedy can prevent this.

POLITICAL ROUNDUP — Watch for Daly City Planning Commissioner Dino Tonelli to enter the council race — strongly. Nothing new. We told you about it some time ago but thought you'd like to hear it again . . . Middle of the roader Dixon Arnett, director of community relations at Stanford U (We seem to be on the "relations" kick today) will likely announce his entry into the primary ring against Senator Richard Dolwig soon. While many heads were turned towards Portola Valley's Sam Halstead climbing into the political area two weeks ago, fellow Republicans were clearing the brush aside for Arnett. Organization counts big in the scramble and the Redwood City councilman seems to have it.

ON THE SUBJECT of politicos, big move underway to get Ed Toby, a South City businessman, onto the city council . . . And we can't rule out former South City City Manager Gene Aeillo. He won't say "yes" and he doesn't say "no" to our questions . . . Karney have a $3.50 ticket on that magic night. Receipts to the San Francisco Warriors-Phoenix Sun basketball game on January 30 at the Daly City Cow Palace. Come up with a single dollar, folks, and Karney will let you have a $3.50 ticket on they magic night. Receipts to the San Bruno Recreation Department. Contact Karney or the Recreation Department in San Bruno and tell 'em "What's-his-name-sent-me."

STILL FOGGY — Whatever happened to that Glider Port some county business types awere going to build at Thornton Beach in Daly City? Last we heard the sailplane was still circling the field in a heavy (Federal Aviation Bureau) fog bank. It's the first time we welcomed the fog, by the way!

COUNCILWOMAN ASPIRANT MARIA LUNA thinks citizens attending public meetings at city hall should be welcomed with a steaming mug of coffee. Not a bad idea! And each person desiring to talk should be allowed three minutes — providing they are not rude and present their ideas in an orderly manner. Another good idea after some of the stuff we've heard dished out by a tiny circle of local residents that do nothing constructive and are only spoiling for an argument with the city.

Trustee Problem: Pay The Man Or His Position?

Something that must be determined by Jefferson Elementary School District trustees in Daly City is whether to pay a man or his position.

Superintendent Frank Greenwood recommended that the trustees raise the salary of Ray Parrett, a resource teacher for the past two years, from $13,260 to $14,144.

According to Greenwood, "due to his (Parrett's) effectiveness in this capacity, the demands on his time, and the responsibility he carries, his position more nearly approached that of a consultant.

"The fact that he has no assistance and is responsible for the cordination of the math and science programs," said Greenwood, "is the reason we're recommending that his place on the salary schedule be advanced two steps."

Recognizing Parrett's contributions, Trustee William Schumacher said he would "prefer to pay a position rather than a person. We should change the job classification, not just give a raise to a teacher," said Schumacher.

Greenwood sad he didn't know what title could be used. Parrett, according to Greenwood, has indicated that his relationship between himself and his staff is better with the absence of a title.

Schumacher still felt the need to upgrade the position, "so we can hire someone else for the position when the time comes. Make him a resource teacher," said Schumacher.

Trustee Edward Tomasello also felt a precedent might be set if the board were to simply give a man a raise.

Greenwood was instructed to consult with Parrett concerning a proper title and report back to the board.

Along the lines of salary increases, Greenwood brought another to the attention of the trustees — credit for private or parochial experience.

The superintendent said it has not been the policy to accept this experience within the district. He indicated he thought maybe the policy should be reviewed. Greenwood said there are four teachers in the district who would go up on the salary scale if the policy were different.

Rather than flatly accept an immediate change in policy, trustees agreed to take the problem under submission at a later date. —Bob Peterson.

Jeff Action On Minibikes Is Held Up

Trustees of the Daly City Jefferson Elementary School District held up action again on a "proper ordinance" to control the use of minibikes on school property.

Several meetings ago the board members directed the district attorney's office to draft a resolution to be presented to the Daly City councilmen asking them to have the police department police the area.

Trustee Bill Schumacher last week indicated that the councilmen would simply return the request, saying in effect that the district would have to set up its own enforcement policy.

According to Schumacher, if the district would adopt a resolution spelling out what they wanted to control, the police could enforce it through the state's vehicle code.

Superintendent Frank Greenwood offered that San Mateo College has such a resolution and that he would obtain a copy for the board members to review and possibly use as an example.

Light Plans Authorized

Preparation of plans and specifications have been authorized by South San Francisco councilmen for the permanent floodlighting of city hall.

City Manager Tom McKenzie said installation has been estimated to cost approximately $6,000. Pacific Gas and Electric, according to McKenzie, will charge an estimated $27 a month to light the building on a daily basis, for ten hours.

Engineering service also will be provided by PG&E.

In a letter from J. J. Speer, PG&E illuminating engineer, it was pointed out that the design will achieve controlled direction, provide color rendition of the building, and will eliminate the shadows on the top of the cupola.

"We feel that the execution of this design will enhance the esthetic value of your building," said Speer.

One resident at last week's city council session questioned the necessity of the project "when Grand Avenue is a big mess."

Volunteers Are Sought

Terra Nova Principal Toanos (Tox) Panagoulias has announced that he is seeking volunteers within the community to serve on the school's newly conceived District Planning Council, a body funded by the PACE program and dedicated to, says Panagoulias, "Improving education in this high school."

The 23-member Council will include a faculty representative from each of the 11 departments, four students, the principal, a counselor, two members of the classified staff, and four members from within the community.

"It's our intention," says Panagoulias, "to receive recommendations from the council and to recommend to the Jefferson Union High School District any locally approved plans to merit which we feel can be implemented by district action."

NPL Roundup

League Leaders Survive Scare

Might there be a North Peninsula League basketball race shaping up after all?

Could be after two closely-contested games involving the league's top team threw a scare into both front-runners. Jefferson was involved in a high-scoring affair with Terra Nova and emerged victorious in a 164-point explosion, 86-78, while lowly Oceana took Westmoor into overtime before dropping a 57-55 decision to the Rams.

In other NPL action South San Francisco kept alive its hex over El Camino with a 62-51 win while Half Moon Bay won its first game of the year over Serramonte, 67-50.

It was NBA offense at its best when the Indians and Tigers met. Balance throughout the game proved the difference again as Jeff just kept pressuring the game, but tiring, Tigers with a zone defense and fast-break attack, it was 26-all after just one quarter and by halftime Jeff had managed to edge ahead by five with Pinky Smith canning 17. Opposing center Bud Papadakis had 20 at intermission but got just three after that.

Smith, meanwhile, added 16 more to total 33 giving him 107 points in three NPL games. It dropped his average to just 35.8 per game.

Faulty foul shooting may have cost Oceana a victory. At the end of both the regulation and overtime periods the Sharks had the opportunity to go ahead from the free throw stripe but failed.

After missing two free throws, trailing 53-51, Oceana got the offensive rebound and senior Steve Crocenzi was fouled with five seconds left. He sank both for the regulation tie.

Sharpshooting Brad Quanstrom did all the damage in the extra three minutes as he opened Westmoor's scoring with a 10-foot jumper. With both Mike Reynolds and Jim Lewis out with five fouls, Westmoor had trouble controlling the boards as the teams exchanged missed shots. The Crocenzi canned a 10-footer of his own to tie the game again.

Oceana then missed two more free throw attempts that would have put the Sharks ahead. Westmoor recovered, worked the ball and the clock and fed Quanstrom who calmly fired in a 25-footer at the buzzer for the win.

Strong arm tactics by guard Tim Noxon propelled the South City five to its win over Camino. The little passer with the rifle arm set up 10 assists and was nine for 10 from the line to pace the Warriors. Forward Mike Larios was high-point man with 24, the majority on driving layins, while Jim Housman, ill this week, came off the bench for 18 more.

A total of 41 fouls were called between both squads as sloppy play changed the predicted fast-break attack of the winners and hindered the pattern offense of the Colts.

ILL BALANCE

NPL's Rich Get Richer

The North Peninsula League still does not have what you would call "overall conference balance" in basketball. The four victorious teams Wednesday won by 119 total points, which must approach some sort of dubious record.

Heading the onslaught were Jefferson and South San Francisco High Schools while Westmoor won by "only" 14 points as El Camino brought down the spread average with a four-point win over Half Moon Bay.

The Indians, who are sharing the league lead at 2-0 with Westmoor, smashed rookie school Serramonte, 93-39, with center Pinky Smith, who shoots at nearly a 60 percent average, getting 33 to run his two-game NPL total to 74 points. All 10 Indians scored in the no-contest game.

South City got off a devastating fast-break attack and took a page from history with a strong pressing defense as the Warriors ran up a substitute-filled 89-42 win over Oceana. Forward Mike Young was high-point man with 20, the majority coming off fast-break layins in the second period when SSF ran off 36 points in eight minutes.

Center Andy Alexander and guard Gene Mackey came through with their best seasonal efforts with a combination of 33 points. Steve Crocenzi led the Sharks with 12.

Up by 15 points in the final quarter, Camino showed a little kind-heartedness and almost lost the game to the Cougars but held on, 64-60. Ron Hjort and Tom Buckley got 16 each as the back-door offenses of Rene Herrerias worked to perfection. Subs entered the fray in the last period and HMB made its final move from then on.

Larry Gunning gunned off 20 points for game honors as HMB lost its second straight four-point decision in NPL play.

Brad Quanstrom shot the rims off the bucket from the perimeter yesterday in leading the Westmoor quintet to its 64-50 win over Terra Nova. The senior sharpshooter also fed his teammates several times for quick assists in a game which saw the winners pull in front right away and keep a comfortable margin all the way.

Mike Reynolds and Jim Lewis controlled the boards for Westmoor while junior Jeff Orlich pumped through 16 points in close.

Vikes Rout Crestmoor

The Mills High School Vikings went into basketball combat January 14 without the services of their No. 1 player.

And as things turned out, they really didn't need him, as their 58-37 victory over Crestmoor indicated.

Chris Condit, the Vikes' center who suffered a leg injury during practice this week, sat out the entire contest and is a doubtful participant for Friday's game against Capuchino.

But the Vikes got a 19-point performance from Clain Campagna and 14 more from Dave Richardson to handle the over-matched Falcons with ease.

The victory gave Mills a 1-1 record in MPL competition to date while Crestmoor remained in the cellar at 0-2.

'Wildwomen' Down Colma

The Webster Wildwomen beat the girls from Colma-Marchbanks in a Daly City Department of Recreation, Parks and Maintenance basketball tournament, 53-11.

For the Wildwomen, Connie Thodos was high scorer with 18 points.

The girls from Webster also won two straight games of volleyball from the Colma-Marchbanks girls, 15-8, and 15-4. Judy Mendelsohn and Karen Agnone were captains for the day. The girls from Webster are looking for other girls' teams to play. If anyone has a junior high school girls' team in basketball, volleyball or softball please call the recreation office.

Aragon Errors Denied

By PETE BARSOCCHINI
Post-Times Correspondent

The Aragon High School Dons gave Crestmoor every opportunity to win their ball game last night, but the Falcons didn't respond to the Dons' kindness as they were dumped 57-47 in an MPL contest.

The Dons, who undoubtedly played their worst game of the season, were plagued by numerous turnovers and unhospitable rims. But the Falcons, who are now 0-3 in league play, could not capitalize on the Dons' ineptness, despite getting 14 point performances from both Rich Bingham and Ron Zavala.

"We didn't play well at all," stated dejected Aragon mentor Ed Diaz. "Crestmoor is not a real tough ball club but they certainly are not pushovers. No teams in this league are."

Out of Aragon's total 57 points, 36 were scored by Jim Romey and Bill Lewis who had 16 and 20 points respectively.

Diaz is still very concerned about having to rely on only two players for most of his team's scoring power. Although Kurt Peterson contributed 14 points for the Dons last night they have not received consistent scoring from any player outside of the high scoring pair of Romey and Lewis.

The Falcons enjoyed a three-point advantage at the end of the first period, but it was to be short-lived. The Dons outscored Crestmoor 13-5 in the second quarter and controlled the game from that point on. The Falcons pulled within 4 points of Aragon early in the final period but both Romey and Lewis began to score with methodic consistency to put the contest out of reach.

With their win on Friday, Aragon moves into a tie with Mills for second place in the MPL standings with 2-1 marks while Crestmoor continues to be the cellar dwellers as they are yet to win a league game.

Vikes Stun Capuchino On Balance

The other teams can cheer their high-scoring heroes, Frank Firpo will matter of factly string along with balance.

That basketball philosophy reaped a 74-71 victory over Capuchino on Friday for the amiable mentor who tutors the Mills Vikings, a team in search of a super-star that really doesn't need one.

Mills moved into a tie for second place with Aragon off their second triumph in Mid Peninsula League competition; one that was chiefly the product of five separate Vikes who scored in double figures.

"Our balanced offense did it for us," Firpo said after the game. "We also changed our defense in the second period and gave them just the outside shot."

Mills' defensive tactics produced the results that Firpo hoped for almost immediately. Cap had jumped off to a 22-14 lead in the first period, but was stopped with a total of eight points for the second and never recovered.

Mills also won the battle of the rebound charts, 32-26, and was aided by the return of Chris Condit, who got 10 points. Clain Campagna (16), Jeff McNabb (15), Rich DeMartini (15) and Charlie Hextrum (14) added to the collective effort.

Steve Newberry led the Mustangs with 26 points while Dave Adornetto got 17. It was Cap's third loss against a single MPL win.

A Week-Before Look At Fight The Day After

By LE PACINI

YESTERDAY ROCKY MARCIANO fought Cassius Clay in a computerized film match (Marciano and Clay sparred before cameras, their moves determined by a computer, just days before Marciano's death) for the all-time championship of the world. We don't know how it came out, because deadline dates caused us to rite this piece before the "bout." But we do know HOW it should comeout:

Marciano should win going away.

We don't say this out of any special expertise or clairvoyance, or even because, in our opinion, Marciano would have won had he been able to fight Clay when both were at ther peak.

If Marciano doesn't win, it won't mean he couldn't have in the real thing. It will merely prove what anyone who has ever had his billing fouled up by a computerized department store "credit manager" has always known — that computers are probably more fallible than man.

We can make this statement without fear of contradiction because it was just over a year ago that Marciano won the "all-time" heavyweight title by knocking out Jack Dempsey to cap a radio computerized elminiation tournament in which Clay knocked out Max Schmeling but was decisioned by Jim Jeffries.

IF YOU DIDN'T FOLLOW the radio tournament, here's how it went, week-by-week:

Jack Dempsey KO'd Gentleman Jim Corbett in 2:40 of the seventh round; John L. Sullivan decisioned Jimmy Braddock, 150 points to 143; Joe Louis KO'd Jess Willard in 2:30 of the fifteenth; Bob Fitzsimmons decisioned Jack Sharkey, seven rounds to five with three rounds even; Max Baer decisioned Jack Johnson, nine to five, one even. (Johnson couldn't escape prejudice even in a computer); Marciano decisioned Gene Tunney, nine-five, one even; Jeffries KO'd Joe Walcott in 2:25 of the tenth; Clay decisioned Schmeling; Dempsey knocked out Sullivan; Louis TKO'd Fitzimmons in the tenth; Marciano TKO's Baer in the thirteenth; Jeffries beat Clay, seven to five, three even; Dempsey out-pointed Louis, 10 to 3, two even; Marciano TKO's Jeffries in the fourteenth; Marciano, down several times himself, knocked Dempsey down five times and finally flattened him permanently in 2:28 of the thirteenth.

So, you see, Marciano should win. Considering that he's the only heavyweight champ to ever retire undefeated, we don't see how he could lose. The only guy who ever beat him was a careless pilot. There just weren't any "losing" statistics to feed into the computer. On the other hand, neither were there any for Clay, who was beaten during his career only by small minds. Perhaps a draw would be in order.

Or perhaps the fairest thing to do would be to let the radio computer and the television computer fight it out and, hopefully, destroy each other in a double knockout.

AS LONG AS WE'RE on the subject of boxing, we might as well get along with out weekly boxing quiz:

1. Which professional fighter fought the most fights?
2. Which heavyweight set a record by fighting three main events in three different arenas in one day?
3. Which ex-heavyweight champ holds the record for being decked?
4. Which champ engaged in the most title bouts?
5. Who scored the most consecutive KO's in pro boxing history?

Answers are at the bottom of this column.

IT COST US SOME MONEY (that's right, we bet on the Vikings), but at least our views of Len Dawson as a passer and team leader, a couple of columns ago, were vindicated by Dawson's money performance in the Super Bowl.

Admittedly, our piece was based on a comparison of Dawson with Namath, rather than Dawson with Kapp. Our only regret about the column, though, is that we failed to include a comparison of looks.

We never quite realized before Dawson's extra-exposure because of the Super Bowl and then the gambling scandals, just what a handsome devil he is. If Dawson weren't operating in an era when "ugly" is in, he'd be the rage of the cabaret circuit, provided he's be willing to deal with it all. Namath's a lucky kid. If he were operating in the '40s and '50s, competing with Tyrone Power, Errol Flynn and Rock Hudson, he'd have to derive his sexual satisfaction from football championships.

ONE OF THE MOST DISTURBING realizations of the past football season, for us, was revealed in an article in the Sporting News last November by Oakland writer Jim Scott, who pointed out the drug culture which exists in professional football. We'd always known that athletes, especially in contact sports, relied heavily on drugs, but weren't aware of the extent to which this is true.

It was a long piece and dealth with all forms of medical treatment in pro ball rather than just drugs, but we reprint here what we feel were the most succinct comments on the subject of drugs in pro football:

"Dr. Small (L. Kendall, the Raiders' team physician) . . . freely admits that all teams use such drugs as amphetamines, anabolic agents and tranquilizers to stimulate, strengthen and relax their players.

"Some players just can't operate without them," explained Dr. Small. "They've come to depend on them as much as their helmets. I've seen players take drugs that would make you and me climb the walls, but somehow they give the athletes the pickup they like.

"Most all team physicians disapprove of strong drugs. But the coaches want them — for some athletes won't play without them. So what's a doctor to do? Well, he just turns his back. The trainer sets the pills out where the athletes who need them can see them — and goes on with his taping" said Dr. Small.

"I've tried to explain to athletes that these drugs are habit-forming, that it will be impossible for them to get along without the pills in later life. But it does no good to warn them. They're already hooked."

A Brave New World comes to the NLF.

ANSWERS TO THE BOXING QUIZ: (1) Abraham Hollandersky, 1,309 fights; (2) Battling Levinsky, on New Year's Day, 1915; (3) Floyd Patterson, 17 in title fights; (4) Joe Louis, 27; (5) Lamar Clark, 43 (followed by Blackjack Billy Fox, 43, and Henry Armstrong, 27).

FINAL THOUGHT: If pro football can have a stiff penalty for roughing the kicker, why not one for roughing the passer? Certainly, a passer is more valuable to his team and the league than is the kicker, and certainly he's just as vulnerable, more intensely aimed at — and more often in jeopardy. How often have you ever heard of a kicker being out for the season with injuries? Passers are the victims of more cheap shots after their segment of the play is over than any players in the game, yet this valuable commodity can depend on his protection only from his teammates — not from the rule books.

Even Elite Not Immune To An Upset

By JOHN HORGAN
Post-Times Sports Writer

Every game is a war in the 1970 West Catholic Athletic League basketball race.

No team — not even the elite of Northern California's prep units — is immune to upset. And Friday night's WCAL action proved it conclusively as two of the league's lower schools, Serra and Sacred Heart, turned in brilliant victories over St. Francis and Riordan respectively.

The Padres, who hadn't won a game in league play in three previous starts, nipped the Lancers (rated number ten in the North State), 65-62, in overtime in San Mateo and the Irish, themselves mired in the nether reaches of the seven-team circuit, edged number one rated Riordan, 54-52, at the USF gymnasium before 6,200 persons.

In the WCAL's third contest of the hectic evening, Mitty surprised visiting Bellarmine, 59-50, in San Jose.

With five rounds of play completed, only 1½ games separate the top five schools. And Serra and Bellarmine are just a breath away as well.

The Padres, 10-5 on the season, got their victory on a long jumper by John Crosby and a free throw by Gary Isoardi in the extra period. Serra fought back from as many as seven down in the fourth frame to tie it with 13 seconds to play on a follow shot by Lynn Swann. That made it 60-all.

The game was tied 15 times as neither club could manage anything more than an eight-point lead — which Serra manufactured in the early second quarter. And then gave it right up.

"We learned one thing tonight," Serra Coach Frank Nolan said later, "And that was if we give a maximum effort we can be in every ballgame. We can at least keep close to these teams."

But Nolan harbored no great optimism for the coming weekend's back-to-back biggies against San Francisco's Sacred Heart and St. Ignatius on Friday and Saturday nights. "Things look very positive right now, but they could get extremely negative awfully fast."

Nolan's outfit got balanced scoring from a variety of players. Crosby, who did not start, led Serra with 18 points. He was given ample help by Rich O'Reagon and Swann with 12 each and by Doug Beanan with ten.

High scorer for both schools was St. Francis superb Tom Ganley who netted 21. Chris Gillman and Jan Myall had 13 and 11 respectively for the Lancers.

Playing masterfully against their powerful City rivals, the Irish worked for a final shot with three seconds left to play. John Cavellero took it from the left side, banked it in and SH had the upset of the season.

Greg Jones Waiting For Pro Draft

By GARRY NIVER
Post-Times Sports Writer

It was back to the books then for South San Francisco's Greg Jones following one of the most illustrious college careers of a Peninsula product.

Jones, resting up at his South San Francisco home last week, said his future is more or less dependent upon the pro football draft, to be held two weeks hence.

"I'll probably continue on in school after graduation, but just where depends on the draft," commented the UCLA halfback who just last week received a $1,000 scholarship for his scholastic achievements.

Jones didn't indicate any preference in the draft, though it is known that the Dallas Cowboys are very interested in him.

Reflecting back on his collegiate career, the unassuming youngster said that he was very pleased with his four-year career at UCLA.

"I did almost everything I wanted to do, with the exception of playing in the Rose Bowl," said the All-Coast halfback. "I was able to play in two of the most important Bowl Games (East-West and Hula Bowls) for graduating seniors, I got to travel a lot and I met a lot of people," he added.

In the recent Hula Bowl in Hawaii, Greg was used as a flankerback and, consequently, didn't get to run with the ball as he has done for the past four years.

"The position was my own choice. When we arrived the coach asked me what I would like to play so I told him flankerback as I thought that we would pass a little more," Greg noted. "However," he continued, "Steve Ramsey didn't work out as well as expected and they used Bob Anderson at quarterback. And that switched the game plan emphasis to a running game."

Jones said that it is hard to tell right now whether or not he will have a letdown now that his college career is over.

"Right now I just want to rest and it feels nice," he stated.

NPL First Place In Today's Game

First place in the North Peninsula League is at stake this afternoon when the undefeated and top-ranked Jefferson Indians travel to Westmoor for what could be the league's best game of the year.

It was Westmoor which last year upset Jeff's title hopes in the two schools' first meeting with a stunning upset. If the Rams do it again tomorrow it will still be considered an upset.

The Indians appear unstoppable with center Pinky Smith leading a potent offensive attack. The 6-5 center has averaged 35 points in three league games so far and has dominated conference statistics.

Westmoor, as usual, has been playing just well enough to consistently be victorious. Ram mentor Tony Giamonna has a well-schooled zone defense prepared and his patented slowdown pattern offense. The clash of the two styles should make it interesting.

It will be the final time Ram forward Jim Lewis will face the Indians. The all-star athlete of Westmoor faces graduation at the end of this semester. His rebounding last year was the key factor in the Westmoor win as he virtually nullified Smith, then a junior, on the boards.

Lest Westmoor concentrate too heavily upon Smith, the Indians present a couple further problems in forward Dale Conway and guard John Burrus. Both are easily double-figure scorers and both can bomb away from the outside of the Westmoor zone.

The Rams are headed offensively by guard Brad Quanstrom, a 6-0 sharpshooter, whose range is usually out of opposing defenses. Junior Jeff Orlich, at forward, must do a rebounding job if the Rams have any hopes of another upset.

In other NPL contests tomorrow the results are expected to be rather predictable: Serramonte, winless in NPL play, is at South San Francisco; Terra Nova, which scored 78 points against Jeff in losing, is at Half Moon Bay; and El Camino is at Oceana, a team which took Westmoor into overtime last week before losing by two points.

Here is the complete schedule for the remaining week's games:

TODAY 3:15 P.M.
NPL—Jefferson at Westmoor; Serramonte at South San Francisco; El Camino at Oceana; Terra Nova at Half Moon Bay.

THURSDAY 7 P.M.
MPL—San Mateo at Hillsdale; Mills at Aragon; Crestmoor at Burlingame.

FRIDAY 3:15 P.M.
NPL—Terra Nova at South San Francisco; Jefferson at Half Moon Bay.

FRIDAY 7 P.M.
NPL—Westmoor at El Camino; Serramonte at Oceana. WCAL—Serra at Sacred Heart. SPAL—San Carlos at Gunn; Carlmont at Woodside; Menlo-Atherton at Cubberley; Ravenswood at Sequoia.

Pitkoff To Leave El Camino

One of the Peninsula's most successful High School baseball coaches has decided to hang up his cleats.

Harry Pitkoff, head baseball coach at El Camino High School in South San Francisco since 1962, announced yesterday he will be leaving at the end of the school year to pursue a new career in the business world.

"I have been afforded the opportunity to join the real estate contracting business in Philadelphia and it is with regret that I announce my resignation at the termination of the current school year," Pitkoff stated.

The hard-working mentor, whose teams have never been worse than second, stated that he couldn't afford to pass up the opportunity.

"I will be joining my brother-in-law in a family business and also will be returning to my relatives and friends," stated the native Philadelphian. Pitkoff noted that all of his relatives are in the Philadelphia area.

The former pro basketball player also said that he hoped to stay in baseball by working as a scout for the Philadelphia Phillies. Pitkoff in the past has been a manager in the Peninsula Winter League, which includes a Phillie farm team.

A Bleacher Celebration For Skyline

Skyline College held a celebrations of sorts Wednesday, much to the chagrin of visiting Solano College.

Coach Walt Rilliet's crew heralded the coming of its gym's new bleacher seats by racing to an easy 73-58 victory over Solano before a host of happy fans. Even more notable was the fact that the Trojans shed the dubious honor of cellar-dwellers in the tough Camino Norte Conference.

"It was very nice to play at home once more and very gratifying to get a victory," stated the happy Rilliet. "We are finally out of the cellar and looking for bigger and better things," Rilliet added. The victory gave Skyline a 1-3 mark in league play.

The Trojans came out in a full court press in the first half which kind of sparked them and enabled them to build up leads up to 10 points on the shooting of Dick Young and Jerry Kollmann.

Skyline reverted back to a man-to-man defense in the second half and the lead soared to 21 points at various junctures in the game. Rilliet substituted freely in the waning moments of the contest.

Young paced the locals with 22 points, while Kollmann added 18 markers to the winning effort. Skyline hosts DeAnza College in an 8 p.m. contest Saturday.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

No Buffalo Hunting In Belmont City Limits

A "Bright Lights" reader walked up to Hal's Whistle Stop proprietor, Leo Martay, and said, "I understand you're known as "One-shot Leo, the Buffalo Hunter." Leo's quick reply was, "Sir, I couldn't hit the side of a barn with a brick!" "That's good," said the "Buffalo Burger" customer with a chuckle as he showed Leo his identification as a State Fish and Game Warden, "because you can't hunt buffalo in Belmont city limits." (Who's he kiddin' — buffalo in Belmont?) . . . Next time you're dining at Luz Garcia's Sinaloa Mexican cantina, try Number 19: Carne de Puerco a la Ranchera, which is Pork Mexican-style with peppers, onions and tomatoes. It's one of the finest dishes in the house . . . Bruno's in San Francisco's Mission to the rescue: The Mission High School varsity soccer team banquet had the hall but no food to go with it. Bruno's stepped in, supplied the entire dinner with chef Vito Saccheri staying up all night to prepare the Latin dinner.

Chuck and Virginia Herschler are still loyal Peninsula restaurant fans. Although Chuck's duties are now headquartered in the Van Ness Oldsmobile, San Francisco, he always takes time to drop a note telling of their dine out escapades. This week the cordial couple chose Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City. "You just can't beat their prime rib steak and spare ribs," reported Chuck. All entrees are served with hot garlic bread, crisp tossed salad (choice of dressing), and stuffed baked or Idaho baked potato with sour cream and chives . . . Foster's special menu for Senior Citizens is creating plenty of comment in the "Young in heart" circles. The low-priced dinner ($1.25), which is served Monday through Friday from 1:30 p.m. to 6 p.m., offers an entree change each day. The Farm-Fried Chicken dinner (all the chicken you can eat) for $2.50 is another hearty feature at Foster's, and is served complete with soup or tossed green salad, Snowflake potatoes and country gravy, hot biscuits, dessert and beverage.

The Princeton Inn, a well-established gathering place in Princeton-by-the-Sea, El Granada, is the scene of much dancing action on Friday and Saturday nights. Attracting big crowds since their opening on New Year's Eve is the popular Sebastian Three, who have built up a sizable following of Peninsula and coastside fans in recent years. Hal Trott, leader of the group, is on drums; Chick Meissner, piano, and lovely Shelly Huntley, jazz bass . . . Straw Hat Pizza Palace has added another new hat to the fast-growing rack. This 22nd Straw Hat is located at West Borough Square in South San Francisco. Manager Bob Santos invites you to come-as-you-are and bring the family. Youngsters get their kicks riding Straw Hat's faithful steed, Charlie Horse. You can relax over pizza and a beer while watching old time movies and cartoons. Incidentally, pizza for dinner is easy on the budget . . . The Folk and Blues Workshop is now offering two nights of folk entertainment a week: Tuesdays at the Poppycock, Palo Alto, and Thursdays at the Odyssey, San Mateo. The sessions start at 9 p.m. and feature some of the Bay Area's finest folk musicians. Performers are admitted free.

Lucky 6, Odd Squad Lead D.C. League

The Daly City Department of Recreation, Parks and Maintenance Three-Man Hunch Basketball League completed its second round of play, with wins being picked up by the Odd Squad, Lucky 6, Lions, Sportsmen, and Half Pints.

The Odd Squad "rapped heads" with the Pomona Casuals, but came out on top of a 48-43 overtime squeaker. The Lucky 6 dominated play in their contest as they mangled the South City Zippers, 40-18, and to round out 6-foot and under division play, the Lions trimmed the Daly City Yellow Cab Company, 40-36. In Open Division contest, the Sportsmen won their second game in a row as they defeated the Buzzards, 40-30, while the Half Pints knocked off the Counters, 40-30.

T.N. Forfeit Gives Rams Mat Triumph

A forfeit in the unlimited class gave the Wrestling Rams from Westmoor a 28-26 edge over the Terra Nova Tigers last week.

The meet started off with a close 95-pound match between Delgado (W) and Mannina (TN), who battled to a draw.

The Rams came on strong in the 103-pound and 112-pound classes, when Lorber (W 103) pinned Clinton (TN) in the second round and Nielson (W 112) did likewise to Lieva (TN) in the first round.

Not to be outdone, the Tigers bounced back. Wasch (TN) pinned Blake (W) in the 120-pound class, so did Stamm (TN) in the second round to Dennings (W) in 127-pound class. Cherhoniak (TN) 133 pounds, won over Pope (W) and Stepp (TN) pinned Norman (W) in the first round of the 138-pound class.

Westmoorite Dove scored a win over Fritz (TN) in the 145-pound class, and then Reeves (W-154 pounds) made it a tie match, 20-20, with his second-round pin of Grover (TN).

The Neutral Corner

By JERRY LITTRELL

HIS RUMPLED PRACTICE JERSEY hangs loose on his 6-1 muscular frame. The easy smile on his face belies the level of concentration he sustains even during these practice sessions. The ball comes quickly to his side, he fakes a return pass, drives he left baseline and twists up a bank-shot bucket.

"Hold it," bellows Burlingame coach Frank Bettendorf, advancing towards the man who was supposed to be guarding him. "Take that move away by . . ." and he explains the intricacies of The needed defensive move. One could hardly blame the defensive player. He was guarding probably the best forward-center-guard in the Mid-Peninsula League.

Lithe forward Craig Healy, who holds more awards in this his senior year than the majority of athletes get in a lifetime, quietly backed away and prepared for his next practice assignment. This Panther front-liner is one of the main reasons why Burlingame, even though losing four starters off last year's team, is still battling for first place in the MPL.

Healy averaged nearly 12 points per game last year as a center and was the team's leading rebounder. He was a second team All-MPL selection. What many persons watching him play fail to realize is that Healy has been deaf since birth.

Since he was nine years old sports has been a major factor in his life. Never letting his hearing handicap interfere with his desire to play and, more importantly, to win, Healy has proved an inspiration to his own teammates and to other schools in the league. We don't know of one opposing player who has anything negative to say about him.

"If I had a choice I would take five Craig Healys every year," Bettendorf stated. "His attitude is excellent. He puts out on every play and has that fierce desire to win. Personalities on the team blend well together. He respects each of his teammates and they return the compliment."

HEALY BEGAN his basketball career back at Clark School in Massachusetts, a prep school for the deaf. There he was a guard and skinny. As his size increased so did his strength until he was able to compete in track as a discus thrower and a broad jump specialist. He pitched on the baseball team despite, by his own admission, being just a "so-so baseball player."

Three years ago he entered Burlingame, the only school in this area with a complete program for the deaf and hard-of-hearing. He joined the football team as an end-place-kicker but saw his only duty as the latter. He also gave baseball another whirl but has decided track and basketball are his main loves.

In the 1967 and 1968 seasons Healy was selected to the All-America team for Schools for the Deaf. He is well on his way to a third selection. Hitting 45 percent of his floor shots, Healy is averaging nearly 15 points per game and adds 13 rebounds to Burlingame's totals.

Speaking in an understandably strained voice, Healy set his goals along these lines: "First, I would really like to be able to help the team win the MPL title this year. I know we're going to have a rough time but we all feel we can do it."

(Healy missed one game so far with a severe case of the flu and the Panthers lost a two-pointer to Hillsdale, 53-51) "I was surprised and happy at how well we did considering how losing even one starter sometimes affects the entire team play," he said. "Maybe next time I can help. We must win."

"YOU CANNOT REPLACE either that desire or the instinct he possesses for basketball," Bettendorf continued. "He doesn't lose that split second so many deaf players do. He senses when the ball has been shot and is on the boards as quick as anyone else."

How does he accomplish this seemingly difficult task — reacting to the split-second of play? "I can feel the vibrations of the running feet, just as I can feel the airplanes going over or the automobiles running," Healy answered. "That's how I can 'hear' on the courts."

Among the many accomplishments he points to with pride and a grin is the time he defeated the now-retired Sam Jones of the Boston Celtics in a freee throw contest at Jones' camp. "I was 15 years old at the time and I thought that was the biggest thrill I had out of basketball."

Twice selected the Most Valuable Player of the Awalt Invitational Tournament, which the Panthers have won for the past two years, Healy admitted that guard is his favorite spot. He likes to shoot from the perimeter where he still is an accomplished scorer.

"I want to go on to college and may be play basketball there," he continued. "But right now I really would like to make the Deaf Olympics in the pentathalon. That's mainly why I'll be going out for track as soon as the basketball season ends."

And that's good news for the track team. Pure, concentrated desire, an athlete's natural instinct for survival and that fierce competitive spirit can only be a plus factor for any team.

Ask him why he doesn't shoot more, especially from the outside, and he'll reply: "I'm not really interested in scoring high. If I can pass off to someone with a better shot I try to do that. It really doesn't matter who scores, does it, as long as the ball goes through the hoop for our side. That's how we win."

And that, fans, is Craig Healy.

THE YOUTH MOVEMENT continues in the North Peninsula League. Neil McNevin, former South San Francisco High School baseball star, has been named new varsity baseball coach at Half Moon Bay High School effective immediately.

McNevin, one of the best hitters ever to come out of the Peninsula, replaces Harvey Koepf, who made good on his standing promise of the past few seasons to retire. The fiery Koepf had molded the Cougars into title contenders the past two seasons and made them consistent winners in at least one sport.

McNevin will inherit a better-than-average team this year. These seniors tied for the freshman title three years ago, headed then by left-handed pitcher Jim Emery. Now Emery, probably the most respected hurler on the upper Peninsula, is again counted on to throw about every inning the Cougars play. He did just that last year as he started and completed every NPL contest.

Mexican-Inspired Foods Are Fast Becoming Coast-To-Coast Favorites

From guacamole to enchilades, Mexican inspired foods are becoming fast favorites of Americans coast-to-coast.

Among the most popular is the taco — known south of the border as a tortilla wrapped around beans, meat, or cheese and eggs then generously seasoned with chili.

Here, that traditional version is given a contemporary, new twist in Taco Pinwheels — and becomes a deliciously easy entree for family meals.

Replacing the crisp tortilla is a dough made from new buttermilk biscuits with shortening chips. The convenient - to - use refrigerated biscuit dough is flattened and coated with cornmeal, for a crisp, outer pastry.

A well seasoned ground beef filling, featuring canned chili beans, is rolled inside the dough and for the finishing touch, cheddar cheese and crushed corn chips bake atop.

Serve the Taco Pinwheels warm from the oven with a "hot" tomato sauce sparked with bits of green pepper and chili powder. To complete the menu, choose coleslaw or a crisp green salad.

TACO PINWHEELS

1 lb. ground beef
1 can (15¾-oz.) chili beans, undrained
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 teaspoons chili powder
1 to 2 teaspoons garlic salt
1 can (8-oz.) Refrigerated Hungry Jack Buttermilk Biscuits
¼ cup corn meal
¾ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
½ cup crushed corn chips3

SAUCE

1 can (15-oz.) tomato sauce with bits
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
¼ teaspoon chili powder
Dash hot pepper sauce, if desired

Oven 350 degrees 6 ti 8 servings

In large skillet, brown ground beef; drain. Mash beans. Combine meat, beans, onion, chili powder and garlic salt; mix well.

Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Sprinkle corn meal on working surface. Place 2 rows of 5 buscuits each together and press to form a dough piece. Roll to form a 16x8-inch rectangle. Spread meat mixture over dough. Starting at 16-inch side, roll up jelly roll fashion. Cut 13x9-inch baking dish, place slices, cut side down, forming two rows. Sprinkle with cheese and corn chips. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes until pinwheels are light golden brown. Serve sauce over tacos.

Sauce: Combine ingredients in sauce pan and heat to boil. Simmer, uncovered, stirring frequently, for 5 minutes.

Cornucopias Thrifty Dish That's Perky

Wrap rich biscuit dough around a colorful, nourishing hot tuna salad, bake and top off with a colorful vegetable sauce to make Tuna Cornucopias, one of the perkiest, thriftiest main dishes you ever saw.

Canned tomato sauce in both the biscuit dough and in the vegetable sauce adds color as well as natural tomato freshness. Tomato sauce is a good complement to the tuna; it cuts the richness.

We found making our own biscuit dough no more time consuming than using a biscuit mix. However, if you prefer, use biscuit mix, substituting tomato sauce for the milk or water called for on the package directions; use all remaining tomato sauce in the vegetable sauce. Stir in the amount of pure vegetable oil called for in the ingredients for "richer dough."

Because this is quite a rich dough, it sometimes has a tendency to brown before it cooks through. For nice even cooking, bake the cornucopias on a foil-covered cake rack set on a baking sheet rather than directly on the baking sheet itself.

Serve Tuna Cornucopias with a vegetable or fruit garnish. We used some mandarin oranges, pickled watermelon chunks and gherkins. Our vegetable garnish features sliced fresh mushrooms and brussels sprouts. For desert, since the main course is rich, canned fruit and sugar cookies would be just fine.

TUNA CORNUCOPIAS

1 can (8½ ounces) peas, drained
1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained
1 cup shredded Cheddar or mild process cheese
2 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon curry powder
1-3 cup pure vegetable oil
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce

Combine ½ cup peas, tuna ½ cup cheese, mayonnaise and onion; set aside. Into mixing bowl sift flour, baking powder, salt and curry powder. Pour oil and 1 can tomato sauce into measuring cup but do not stir; pour all at once into dry ingredients. Sir with fork just until mixed; turn out on wax paper and knead lightly about 10 times. Roll out ¼-inch thick between sheets of wax paper; cut into six 4-inch rounds. Spoon tuna onto rounds; dampen edges. Fold bottom sides of rounds together, pinching edges securely together to seal; leave one end open to make "cornucopia." Cover a cake rack or rack from roasting pan with foil; oil lightly. Place on baking sheet; arrange cornucopias on rack. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Meanwhile, combine remaining can tomato sauce, peas and cheese; heat, stirring occasionally. Serve over cornucopias. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Pork Partner Entree A Unique Duo

It's a double-barreled treat when two pork favorites are teamed for a spicy, peachy entree.

Pork sausage links paired and wrapped in blankets of "bolled" ham provide a unique flavor duo. The ham-sausage rolls bake sizzling good between layersoof spicy peack slices.

A meat expert suggests Pork Partners for a menu that's easy to prepare and always delicious because of the consistently high quality of these processd meats.

Pork Partners

1 pound pork sausage links
8 slices "boiled" ham
2 tablespoons water
1 can (16 ounces) sliced peaches
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon lemon juice

Place sausage links and water in cold frying-pan. Cover tightly and cook slowly five minutes. Remove cover. Pour off drippings and lightly brown links. Place two links side by side on each ham slice. Roll ham around links and fasten with wooden picks. Drain peaches, reserving juice. Stir, one cup juice into cornstarch, cloves and cinnamon. Cook, stirrring constantly, until thickened. Add peaches and lemon juice nd cook until heated through. Pour half the peach mixture in the bottom of a greased 8x8x2-inch baking dish. Arrange the ham-sausage rolls on top. Add remaining peach mixture. Bake in a moderate over (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Eight servings.

Versatile Soup For Homemakers

A soup as versatile as California Beef Soup should be within the repetroire of every busy homemaker and hostess. This quick-to-mkea beef soup has all the food flavor and aroma found in traditional soups that are simmer and simmered and simmered . . .

This ground meat soup provides the optimum advantages to a homemaker on the busiest night in the family circle. Its hearty beef balls floating in the flavorful broth make a wholesome foundation for a family dinner. A simple menu can be completed with marinated tomato slices on lettuce and cornbread. Dessert can be a beverage by serving hot chocolate with a dollop of whipped cream.

"Soup's on" will be a welcomed call at supper or midnight party with a south-of-the-border theme inspired by this soup based on the classic albondiga, a Mexican meatball soup. The Mexican theme can be developed by serving the soup in a gay-colored pottery tureen alongside matching soup bowls buffet-style. The party menu may include green salad mixed with ripe olives and sliced avocados, hot tortillas and chocolate mousse.

CALIFORNIA BEEF SOUP

1 pound California ground beef (lean)
¾ cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup water
1 egg
¼ cup minced onion
1¾ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
¾ cup thinly sliced onion
1 tabelspoon butter or margarine
4 (10½-ounce) cans beef broth
3 cups water
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
1 tablespoon chili powder

Mix beef, crubs, water, egg, minced onion, 1¼ teaspoons salt and pepper together in mixing bowl. Shape into 1-inch meat balls. Saute sliced onion lightly in butter in Dutch oven. Add broth, water, tomato sauce, chili powder and reamining ½ teaspoon salt; bring to boil. Drop meat balls into soup; simmer until cooked, about 10 minutes. Makes 6 or more servings.

'Priceless' Stew To Help Budget

Budget minded California homemakers find their task of feeding the family a challenging one. They are confronted with rising food costs and yet must serve nutritionally sound and flavorfully inspired meals. She can perform this task successfully with a bit of imagination and California beef.

Priceless California Beef Stew is just that — imagination and California beef. The home economists for the California Beef Council were inspired to accent this robust beef stew with anise seed, onion and garlic. The stew is cooked long and slow for some very tender resalts that will be obvious when family members ask for seconds.

All of the wholesome nutrients in expensive beef cuts are packed into economical beef stew meat — vitamins, protein and minerals. The homemaker need not fear that she is cheating her family of valuable nutrients when serving less expensive beef cuts.

The meal may be completed with a three-ban salad on a bed of lettuce and French fried potatoes. A golden lemon meringue pie is the finishing touch for this very California beef dinner.

PRICELESS CALIFORNIA BEEF STEW

2½ pounds lean California beef stew meat
2 tablespoons cooking oil
2 large onions, cut in wedges
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup water
1 (6-ounce) can tomato paste
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon anise seed
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 (1-pound) package frozen French fried potatoes

Cut beef in lareg cubes and brown in oil in skillet. Remove meat from skillet, add onions and brown lightly. Return meat to skillet. Add garlic, bouillon cube dissolved in water, tomato paste, bay leaf, anise seed, salt and pepper; cover and simmer until meat is tendr 1½ to 2 hours.

Prepare French fries according to package directions; serve with stew. Make 6 to 8 servings.

Here's One To Try For Experiment

Matador Steak is a recipe designed both for homemakers who like to experiment with interesting recipes and for those whose cooking experience may be limited but who like to produce dishes that look impressive and taste superb.

Start by "butterflying" a flank steak. Most butchers will do this for you if they aren't busy or you can do it yourself without much difficulty. Slitting open a thin flank steak does require patience, however, and a very sharp or electric knife. You may find the meat easier to handle if it's partially frozen.

Spread a gourmand sausage stuffing over the steak. Choose either Spanish chorizo or Italian sausage for the stuffing, which ever you like better. Mix the sausage with chopped green onions and parsley.

Now just roll up the steak and tie securely with string. Brown the steak then simmer in canned tomato sauce with tomato bits. This is the marvelously convenient tomato sauce that combines both velvety regular tomato sauce and juicy chopped tomatoes. Not much seasoning is needed — just a bay leaf and a bit of beef broth.

Matador steak can be prepared early in the day, if you like, then reheated slowly before serving. For a larger dinner party buy two steaks and double the remaining ingredients to make two rolls.

Serve the pretty pinwheels of meat with buttered, warmed tortillas or French bread to scoop up all the scrumptious meat juices and avocado half shell salads. For dessert bring out a cool, creamy coconut chiffon pie garnished with whipped cream and well-drained orange sections.

MATADOR STEAK

1 flank steak (1 to 1¼ pounds)
½ pound chorizo or Italian sausage
2 cans (8 ounces each) or 1 can (15 ounces) tomato sauce with tomato bits
1 cup chopped green onions (tops included)
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons pure vegetable oil
½ cup beef broth
1 bay leaf

"Butterbly" flank steak: With very sharp or electric knife split steak horizontally, starting from wide side and cutting to within one-half inch of opposite side. Open steak flat; with meat hammer or edge of heavy saucer pound meat to ¼-inch thickness. Remove casing from sausage; crumble sausage into bowl. Mix in one-half cup tomato sauce with tomato bits, onions and parsley. Spread over steak; starting at narrow end, roll up jelly roll fashion; tie with string. Sprinkle with flour and salt. In large skillet brown meat in oil; pour off fat. Stir in remaining tomato sauce with tomato bits, beef broth and bay leaf. Simmer, covered, 1½ hours or until tender; baste with sauce every 15 minutes. Place meat on carving board; remove string and cut into one - hanf - inch slices. Skim fat and remove bay leaf from sauce; spoon some over meat and pour rest into sauceboat to pass at table. Makes four to six servings.

Astronauts' Food Package May Change The Kitchen In American Homes

Food specially packaged for the U.S. astronauts will be available in similar packaging form for housewives in the 1970's, a food packaging company executive predicts.

"While we won't ever need to squeeze food out of a plastic bag for direct consumption as long as we have gravity in our environment, we will see and want these flexible containers that we can mix and cook in, and perhaps even serve in," said H. O. Ranger, vice president of research and development for one of the largest producers of food packaging in the U.S.

Food packaging innovations for astronauts and others now in development "indicate the home of tomorrow may well be kitchenless," he predicts. Tomorrow's home "will have food preparation centers, perhaps in several places, such as a dining area, in a playroom and opening into a wall on the patio."

"The change towards this in the next 10 years is as certain as the change from a housewife grinding cornmeal in the 1920's to corn muffin mix in the 1940's," he added.

Ranger made his remarks in an address to women's food editors attending the annual meeting of the Iowa Daily Press Association.

His firm, Milprint, Inc., of Milwaukee, an affiliate of Philip Morris Incorporated, developed and manufactures the specialized flexible packaging materials in which the astronauts' food is vacuum wrapped and protected.

The food packaging accomplishments are part of NASA' life support system for astronauts. The astronaut's rigid specifications: stand temperatures ranging from 50-degrees below zero to 30-degrees above; not allowing gasses or moisture to pass in or out; withstand zero gravity; be sealable with strong seals, and yet easily opened.

Years of research and development have gone into perfecting the food packaging material for space requirements that will have direct consumer application shortly.

"A variety of new food products, developed along the lines of the food being consumed in outer space, are currently being tested and introduced," Ranger said.

These products, including many meats, fruits, vegetables, and beverages, are prepared by means of freeze dehydration, the process now being used by coffee makers and on nearly all the astronaut's food before it is vacuum sealed in plastic packaging material.

"This new method of food processing — freeze-dehydration plus the use of high barrier, flexible packaging materials — will provide nnumerous benefits for both the food processor and the housewife," Ranger said.

"The food processor's shipping cost can be reduced considerably. Food is lighter in weight when shipped in a dried state. And when packaged in film, as opposed to metal or glass, the shipping weight of large quantities of a product can be reduced to, an even greater extent."

Ranger predicted that the institutional food market will be the first area in which the combination of freeze dehydration and flexible packaging will be widely used outside the space capsule.

Portion packaging — whether for hospitals, schools, restaurants or homes — will probably be the area which will begin to experience the most rapid growth of the flexible packaging and the freeze dehydration concept.

One may foresee the day when cans and bottles, "as we know them today, will go the way of the earthen crock and jug."

A Unique Stew With A Difference

When is a stew not a stew? Could be when it's a meat and vegetable combination inspired by Oriental cookery. For example, this recipe for Far East Dinner is much too glamorous to be thought of as a stew, even though beef and vegetables are simmered together in liquid.

FAR EAST DINNER

- 1½ pounds beef round steak, cut ½ inch thick
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 can (4 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces
- 1 can (16 ounces) bean sprouts
- 4 medium-sized onions, cut into 16 wedges each
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 1½ cups diced celery
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- ½ cup water
- ¼ cup soy sauce
- 2 medium-sized tomatoes, peeled and cut into 8 wedges each
- 1 cup cooked green beans

Cut meat into ¼-inch strips. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Drain mushrooms and bean sprouts and reserve liquid. Add 1 cup liquid to meat, cover tightly and cook over low heat 1 hour. Add onions, green pepper and celery and cook 15 minutes. Add mushrooms and bean sprouts. Mix cornstarch with water and soy sauce. Add to meat mixture and continue cooking, stirring, 10 minutes or until sauce is thickened. Add tomatoes and green beans and heat 5 minutes. 4 to 6 servings.

An Italian Pear And Cheese Salad

"Pear Salad Luigi" is an Italian version of popular pear and cottage cheese salad. In this case, the pears are fresh California Bartletts and the cheese is the small curd cottage type livened with chopped anchovies, parsley, onion and pimiento. Use RICOTTA cheese if you want to be more authentic.

Make the cheese mixture early in the day, if you like, then heap it into the pear halves just before serving.

PEAR SALAD LUIGI

- 1 tin (2 oz.) anchovy fillets
- 1 cup small curd cottage cheese
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 tablespoon sliced green onion
- 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
- 2 or 3 fresh California Bartlett pears
- Lemon juice
- 4 to 6 lettuce cups

Drain and chop anchovies; mix with cheese, parsley, onion and pimento. Chill if you wish. To serve, halve and core pears; sprinkle with lemon juice. Place lettuce on plates; add pear halves. Spoon cheese mixture into pears. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Lunch Is Very Special On Birthday

Lunch has to be something rather special on a birthday. Here's a meal that will have your teen-ager squealing with joy.

Egg Salad Sandwich
Cherry Tomatoes
Rainbow Ice Cream
Birthday Rainbow Cup Cakes
Carbonated Beverages Milk

EGG SALAD SANDWICH

- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
- 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle
- ½ teaspoon prepared mustard
- 4 slices rye bread
- Spinach leaves

Combine ¼ cup soup, eggs, pickle, and mustard. Spread on 2 slices of bread. Top with spinach and remaining bread. Two sandwiches.

Rockfish Curry's Answer To Meal In A Hurry

Are you looking for something tasty and new, nourishing and novel, moderately priced, and quick to fix? Well, don't look any longer; here's just the thing for you.

There's an awful lot of rockfish in the sea! More than 50 varieties, as a matter of fact, live along the coasts of Washington, Oregon, and California, and many of them are excellent eating. An entirely different species is caught and marketed as rockfish along the East coast.

With a rising demand for these colorful, tasty fish, commercial fisherman are hauling boatloads of rockfish into port. Rockfish are plentiful, and, good news for the homemaker, abundance means moderate prices.

Many species of rockfish are closely related, varying mainly in coloration. Once the fish are filleted, however, it is difficult to tell them apart. Most rockThe flesh is firm and white and exceptionally good eating. Rockfish fillets adapt readily to many preparation methods and can be substituted in most recipes calling for fillets.

Collect dividends of satisfaction with this abundance from the sea. Rockfish Curry, an easy-do recipe from the Bureau of Commerical Fisheries, brings an intriguing touch from the Middle East.

The cubed rockfish fillets are combined with cooked apple and onion for added flavor and texture. Simmered gently in water and flavored with curry, this unusually tasty mixture is soon ready to serve over hot rice.

Offer curry condiments of chopped green onion, peanuts, and chopped tomatoes, then sit back and listen to the exclamations of delight.

This is a mixture that your family will ask for again and again, and you'll be happy to cooperate — the taste is great, the nourishment is high, and you'll pamper your pocketbook every time it is served.

The West coast has many rockfish recipes, and some of the choicest ones have been collected and printed in a new 39-page Marine Fish Cookbook. This new booklet, published by and available from the State of Washington, Department of Fisheries, General Administration Building, Olympia, Washington 98501, has a whole section devoted to rockfish.

Other West coast fish recipes cover sole and flounder, cod, sturgeon, halibut, albacore (tuna), smelt, and shad. It also has a collection of stuffings and sauces especially developed to complement Fish for your copy of this interesting new booklet send 50 cents to the above address.

ROCKFISH CURRY

- 2 pounds skinless rockfish fillets or other fish fillets, fresh or frozen
- 2 cups pared chopped apple
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup flour
- 2 teaspoons curry powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1¾ cups water
- 3 cups hot cooked rice
- ¾ cup chopped green onion
- ¾ cup chopped peanuts
- ¾ cup chopped tomatoes

Thaw frozen fillets. Cut fillets into 1-inch cubes. Melt butter in a 12-inch fry pan. Add apple and onion and cook until tender. Blend in flour and seasonings. Add water gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add fish. Cover and cook over low heat for 7 to 10 minutes or until fish flake easily when tested with a fork. Serve over rice with the following curry condiments: chopped green onions, peanuts, and tomatoes. Makes 6 servings.

Council Asks Fair Housing

In an unanimous vote Jan. 12, the Daly City Council passed a resolution urging all offices dealing with the sale or rental of housing in the city to abide by the State Fair Housing Act.

The resolution came on the heels of a letter from the County Human Relations Commission which had requested each municipality for support in a move asking that special notices be posted advising rentors of their rights under the act.

When the same letter came before the Pacifica City Council last month it was blasted by some officials and local businessmen who felt it was unjustified and an insult to the area's realtors and businessmen.

The act bans discrimination in renting or sale of housing because of race, color, or creed.

Purpose of the resolution, the council feels, is to "maximize the effectiveness" of the act.

They feel that by posting special notices in a conspicuous place within housing offices, individuals will better understand these rights.

Daly City has some 7,000 apartment units throughout the city.

Lorvan Thinks Pupils Should Attend Board

Superintendent James Brien has agreed to "explore" a proposal by Laguna Salada School District trustee Sidney Lorvan to invite pupils of one classroom and their parents to attend each meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Lorvan said he saw the invitation as an attempt to involve both students and parents in education in the community.

But, the plan seemed open to at least two built-in concerns — that of keeping grade-school pupils up late hours and of finding a place to hold a meeting with the large numbers that could be anticipated to attend under a plan like that.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

PRESIDENTIAL CONSUMER advisor, Virginia Knauer, in her speeches around the country, tells the consumer to "organize and sound off." She both threatens and appeals to business to "get with it." She has taken a firm stand on controversial issues and has proposed new, even radical approaches to consumer protection.

The news highlights what she feels is wrong with the consumer world and her critisisms of business receive headlines in the media. However, analyzing her speeches, they seem to call for a spirit of partnership between the consumer and business.

Speaking before the American Society of Association Executives she stated, "We want to work more closely with manufacturers' associations, such as yours and industry standard-making groups to promote more responsive complaint handling facilities and to encourage the adoption of voluntary arbitration systems."

She spoke of the many business associations sponsoring consumer clinics, consumer credit counseling services, consumer education courses and consumer information television commercials. "They are acting rather than reacting—proposing rather than opposing," she said.

Speaking before an American Gas Association, Mrs. Knauer said part of her job was "to focus a spotlight on trouble spots, to inform the consumer of his rights in the hope that the consumer and business community will take notice and then take appropriate action."

Although Mrs. Knauer seems to indicate she would like business cooperation, she has yet to come up with an administration program business can work with. In the meantime, Congressional lawmakers are turning out numerous consumer protection bills and regulatory agencies are expanding their activities.

Governor Reagan has proposed legislation which will permit counties to set up consumer affair's offices to listen to the unhappy buyer's complaints.

In his state-of-the-state message to Legislature Reagan said he planned to create a state department of consumer affairs. All of this pending legislation makes Mrs. Knauer's spirit of partnership between government and industry seem to be a far-distant thing.

New Voter Registration Plans Here

JOHN J. HARTNETT of South San Francisco has been appointed national sales manager for marine products at Raytheon Company's Marine Products Operation, South San Francisco, California. Hartnett will direct sales and sales support activities for the company's full line of marine electronic equipment for navigation, communication and safety. Hartnett had been manager of marketing services.

A change in voter registration procedures making it unnecessary for voters to re-register after moving from one location to another in San Mateo County was announced today by County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church.

Effective this year, Church said, a voter who has moved within this county may notify his office by completing and mailing a special change of address card.

Cards are available at the county clerk's offices in South San Francisco and Redwood City, post offices and other locations, or they will be mailed upon request to the county elections office.

"This provision applies only to voters who are already registered in San Mateo County and have moved from one address to another within the county," Church said. "A separate card must be used by each voter requesting a change of address and must be signed by the voter himself.

"Any other changes, such as change of party affiliation, occupation changes and so forth, must still be handled by appearing before a registration deputy and executing a new affidavit of registration."

In order to vote in the June 2 primary election, Church said, the last day a voter may correct his registration, if he has moved, is April 9.

Garden Center To See New Safari Movie

A movie of the latest Safari by the Bohannon Family in Africa will be the 8 p.m., January 26 program at the San Mateo Garden Center.

The second highlight of the evening will be the installation of the 1970 officers: President, Mrs. Joseph J. Gallagher, first vice-president, John K. Fern, second vice president; Mrs. Harry E. Chamberlain, recording secretary; Mrs. John K. Fern, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank W. Sexton, treasurer; Mrs. Ronald P. Bolan.

Productive Planning Year In S.S.F.

Calendar year 1969 was one of South San Francisco's most productive planning years.

These, at least, are the words city planner Dan Pass used to introduce the planning department's fourth annual report to the planning commissioners. It is titled "Progress Through City Planning."

According to the report, the council's adoption of the planning commission's "Proposed Comprehensive Revampment ot the City's Adopted General Plan of 1963" provided citizens and developers with a "blueprint for orderly growth and progress."

A plan designed to promote the development of modern housing (called the "Housing Element") also was adopted. This is for housing in "orderly neighborhoods" for all segments of this city's population.

"This plan provides those guidelines which will encourage private and public entrepreneurs and agencies to eliminate South San Francisco's growing shortage of housing, and to roll back the residential decline, and blight infestation in older neighborhoods," said the report.

"Westborough-West Park came alive in Calendar 1969," it continued. "The city processed those subdivision maps, planned-unit developments, amendments, and architectural plans which will enable the involved developers to construct several hundred townhouses in South San Francisco's westerly borough."

The report also stressed the importance of the city's industrial areas, citing specifically Cabot, Cabot and Forbes Industrial Parks growth.

"This growth was spurred by the construction of several air-freight oriented facilities, said the report. "South San Francisco's industrial dominance will increase as the emphasis on air cargo grows."

And in 1969, like the mini skirts, up went the skyline. According to the report, the multi-story buildings of Royal Inns and Guy F. Atkinson reflect the city's future stature.

"As South San Francisco's valuable land decreases, the need for well-planned high-rise structures will become more apparent.

"However," continued the report, "It should be emphasized that high-rise complexes cannot produce orderly growth in the absense of effective city, public works, and site planning. It should also be emphasized that the premature development of high-rise districts has usually resulted in urban decline."

And in 1969, the commission and council also approved the tentative map of Houston-based G.M.T.'s 100-acre Juniper neighborhood. In order to guarantee the city that this Westborough project will be characterized by orderly growth, the planning commission has notified G.M.T. that commissioners will exercise direct architectural control in connection with the planning.

The project will eventually consist of approximately 3,100 dwelling units, and house about 6,500 people.

"Calendar 1970 will not witness any slackening of the planning pace," promises the report.

Collection

Gift of a collection of law books have been received by the South San Francisco Unifed School District.

The firm of Myers, Hawley, Morley and Moore of Los Altos will make the set, Corpus Juris Secundum, available in the Louis J. Bagnall Library.

JOINT SIGNING — January being National Blood Donor Month, the mayors of Daly City and South San Francisco sat down together to sign proclamations to urge blood donations in their respective cities. At left, behind Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett, mayor of Daly City, is Guido J. Rozzi, Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank vice president. And behind Mayor Frank Bertucelli of South San Francisco is Robert Q. Tarver, president of the Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank.

Crestmoor High 1st In U.S. To Join Sierra Club

Crestmoor High School in San Bruno is the first high school in the United States to become a member of the Sierra Club.

The school's chapter, with a membership of 96, is gaining in popularity with students because of its diverse activities and conservation campaigns, according to Jim Schwerdt, faculty advisor and founder of the club.

Recently, club members have been active in the Save Our Bay campaign and the Point Reyes Seashore issue.

The club took a field trip to Point Reyes and the town of Bolinas on the week-end of Nov. 22-23. More recently, ten people went on a kayak cruise of the Russian River.

Future activities of the club include tree-planting at a watershed area near Crystal Springs reservoir, a trip to Pentacles National Monument, and a picnic on Angel Island.

Members of the club take conservation very seriously, according to chairman Mike Sharkey. They write letters to congressmen about conservation issues and devote a good deal of time to school campaigns.

Other officers of the club are Terri AuClair, general secretary-treasurer; Rob Butori, activities secretary; and Dave Sanders, conservation secretary.

Anyone at Crestmoor is welcome to join the club at any time, according to advisor Schwerdt. Dues are $5 yearly, paid directly to the Sierra Club.

Schwerdt hopes that the club's success at Crestmoor will be an example to other high schools.

Westmoor Students Are Praised

Goodwill Industries lauded Westmoor High School students at a recent rally in their gymnasium for effort put forth during their annual clothing drive, which culminated the day before Christmas vacation this past December. The students collected enough clothing to assure handicapped workers at Goodwill of approximately 6300 hours of training and wages.

"This is the first clothing drive for many of you and the fourth for others," Wally Skeels, Goodwill's partially-sighted Community Relations Director, told students, "but this is the ninth for Goodwill. During the past nine years, Westmoor has collected over 160,000 pounds of material to provide approximately 48,000 hours of work for handicapped men and women at Goodwill." He then introduced Mary Crabtree, who is also partially sighted. As the recently-selected Goodwill "Worker of the Year," she thanked the students on behalf of her 285 fellow employees, and presented the rotating "Good Willy" trophy to James Bari, President of the Senior Class, which collected the most pounds of clothing in 1969.

The annual drives serve as a form of class competition at Westmoor, each class striving to collect and contribute more clothing than the others.

"Good Willy," originally a Milton Caniff drawing showing a happy young man, lunch pail in hand, moving speedily along in a wheelchair, is represented in statue form atop the "Good Willy" trophy. The speed of "Willy's" wheelchair is symbolic of overcoming disability, and his lunch pail symbolizes employment.

Beneath "Willy's" statue, there is a gold plaque where the "Class of 1970" will be inscribed below the winning classes of previous years.

The entire project was coordinated this year by Debbie Shapiro, Senior. Richard D. Hart, Assistant Principal, has served as an adult advisor for five of the drives.

"Student leaders have been invited to tour Goodwill's workshops in San Francisco," said Skeels, "so they can see for themselves what an important role Westmoor's contributions play in our program of rehabilitation."

Lunch Costs Are Increased

Cost of school lunches in the South San Francisco Unified School District will increase by five cents beginning February 2.

EXPULSION

It took an hour-long executive session, but South San Francisco Unified School District trustees Monday of this week finally decided to expel two students involved in the sale of "yellow jackets" — drugs, not wearing apparel.
